Hoover Announces That Investigation Will Go On as State Summons a Special Grand Jury.

Prisoner Boasted That Child's Abductor 'Was a Pretty Smart Fellow.'

MIAMI, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—Authorities pressed on with the Cash kidnapping investigation tonight, far from satisfied that the case was solved by the arrest of Franklin Pierce McCall and recovery of the victim's body and most of the ransom.

McCall, 21-year-old truck driver and minister's son who had lived in the Cash apartment at Princeton, was said by federal agents to have confessed he wrote the three ransom notes and collected the $10,000 which James Bailey Cash paid for the safe return of his five-year-old boy, James Jr.

But he doggedly refused to acknowledge any other part in the crime and J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced that "the investigation will actively continue."

Others Reported Held. Reports were current that one or two additional suspects were held with the muscular McCall in the FBI's skyscraper detention rooms but Hoover declined to comment.

No formal charge was filed against McCall but State Attorney George A. Worley held Circuit Judge Arthur Gomez convene a special grand jury for Monday morning. Worley indicated he would rush the case to trial as soon as it was ready.

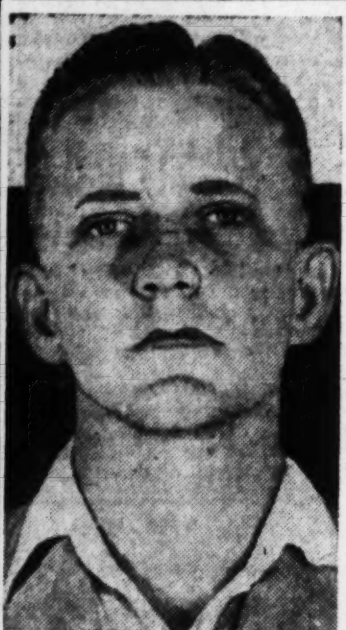

At his direction Corner S. L. Kendrick at Homestead empaneled an inquest jury of six men who examined the remains of little Skeegie at an undertaker's there in advance of private funeral services, inspected the spot where the body was found early today and visited the Cash home. Then they adjourned until Saturday afternoon without reporting a verdict.

Unnoticed by the public, the father and his brother, Wilson P. Cash, motored to Homestead late today to record their formal identification of all that was left of the vivacious blue-eyed child.

J. B. Cash did not look at the body—only at the shreds of the one-piece pajama suit the little boy wore when his mother read him to sleep from the funny papers for the last time. He also had avoided seeing the corpse when G-men brought it to his residence after it was found.

Dr. Thomas Otto, who accompanied Hoover and his aides when they located the remains, expressed the opinion the kidnaper had killed the lad before tossing him into the thicket. Decomposition had been rapid, however, and

Violent Death Stills Witness In Mine Trial

Two Brothers Held in Slaying; Will Face Charges Today.

LONDON, Ky., June 9.—(UP) Sheriff Herbert Cawwood reported by telephone from Harlan tonight that Leslie Smithers, who was subpoenaed to testify for the government in the Harlan coal conspiracy trial here, was shot and killed late today at Gulston five miles from Harlan.

He said that Verlin Fee, 30, and his brother, Clyde, 28, were jailed in connection with the killing. George Titler, a United Mine Worker field representative at Gulston, said by telephone from Harlan that Clyde Fee shot Smithers and that the shooting occurred after Verlin Fee drew a knife on the victim and said:

"You're a snitcher for going to London."

Deputy Jailor Timman Knuckles at Harlan said the Fee brothers were badly beaten up when they arrived at the jail. He said he would issue murder warrants against them tomorrow.

Archbold Expedition In Dutch New Guinea

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea—(Friday), June 10.—(Via Pan-American Airways Radio)—Richard Archbold, millionaire sportsman-explorer, brought his giant airboat Guba down here at 7:11 a. m. today (4:11 p. m. Atlanta time, Thursday), ending a 6,284-mile flight from San Diego by way of Honolulu and Wake Island.

Archbold took off from Wake last night at 9:30 p. m. Accompanied by five companions, Archbold will establish a base for a two-year exploration of the New Guinea mountain wilderness.

House Removes Jenks, Seats Roy, Applauding Loser as He Departs

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—Progressives and five Farmer-Laborites joined 84 Republicans in voting against ousting Jenks. Roy's addition to the Democratic ranks gave the majority party a total of 328 members and reduced Republican membership to 89.

In doing so, the chamber declined to accept a Republican contention that 34 "missing" ballots were cast for Jenks in the 1936 election.

The vote to remove Jenks, 70-year-old retired shoe manufacturer, was 214 to 122. On a separate roll call, 226 to 109, the house agreed to give the vacant seat to Roy.

NATIVE GEORGIAN NOMINATED JUDGE OF CIRCUIT COURT

Leon McCord, of Montgomery, Will Become Fifth Judge of Fifth District Appeals Bench.

CONFIRMATION THOUGHT CERTAIN

Served as Alabama Jurist and Was Original Roosevelt Supporter in 1932.

Leon McCord, of Montgomery, a native of Conyers, Ga., yesterday was nominated by President Roosevelt to become the fifth judge of the fifth circuit court of appeals, it was learned here last night.

The fifth post on the six-state tribunal was created recently by an act of congress. States comprising the jurisdiction of the circuit are Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. The court sits in New Orleans.

McCord, when confirmed, will be the second native Georgian to sit on the fifth circuit court bench. Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of Marietta, is the other Georgian.

Appointee Nears 60.

Appointment of McCord, who will be 60 June 21, was recommended by the Alabama senators and a majority of the house delegation, but the nomination came only after a contest in which three names were submitted by Florida senators.

McCord's nomination went to the senate judiciary committee, which probably will make a report Monday. Confirmation was considered certain.

McCord became a member of the Democratic National Committee in 1932 and campaigned for the first nomination of President Roosevelt.

McCord, self-styled "Sand Mountain Boy" who made good in the city, learned of the nomination when he returned from a fishing trip on the Alabama river.

Fishing and young men—he has taught the city's largest Bible class for 19 years—are McCord's diversions. Those two things have occupied his spare moments during the 35 years he has been more or less in public life.

Famed as an orator and raconteur of the old school, McCord's first public position was secretary of the state supreme court, where he served for four years beginning in 1903. He was state railroad commissioner from 1910 to 1914 and became judge of Alabama's 15th judicial circuit (Montgomery) in 1916, serving 18 years and seven months without opposition.

A former national commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, McCord was born June 21, 1878, in Conyers, but his family moved to Albertville, in Alabama's Sand Mountain country, when he was four years old.

SOUTHERN SOLONS APPEAR TO GAIN IN WAGES BATTLE

Tacit Threat to Filibuster Forces Conference Committee to Re-open Minimum Question.

RIGID 40-CENT RATE FOCUS OF ATTACK

Monopoly Investigation Resolutions Approved in Senate, Sent to House.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—Eighteen southern senators appeared to be getting results tonight in their fight to establish lower wage minima for the south than the north.

Their tacit threat to talk the wage-hour bill to death unless it permitted differentials forced a senate-house conference committee to reopen the whole minimum wage question.

Later Senator Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, said the conferees had "virtually accepted" certain suggestions of the southerners. He acknowledged, however, that no vote had been taken.

Before today's ultimatum from Dixie, 11 of the 14 conferees had approved a formula under which wages in interstate commerce would be fixed, without exceptions, at 25 cents the first year and 30 cents the second year. These conferees had agreed that from the third to the seventh year, inclusive, the scale would be fixed for each industry, separately, between 30 and 40 cents, upon recommendation of special boards. After the seventh year, a general 40-cent rate would be required, excepting only industries in which such a rate would tend to cause disemployment.

Oppose Rigid Rate.

Led by Senator Ellender, a member of the conference committee, the southerners opposed the provision for a rigid 40-cent rate after seven years.

As a basis for further discussion, Ellender proposed that reasons other than that of probable unemployment be added as a cause for exemptions, among them local living costs, prevailing wages and comparative freight rates.

The wage-hour controversy clouded prospects for an early adjournment of congress. Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, the Democratic senate leader, predicted the legislators would go home "about Tuesday," but this forecast was contingent upon some wage-hour formula satisfactory to the southern senators being worked out.

Monopoly Probe Voted.

Progress was made, however, on another item of the administration's program for this session. The senate approved and sent to the house a resolution providing for an investigation of monopolistic practices in business and industry.

Under the terms of the senate resolution the investigation would be conducted by a committee of 12—three senators, three house members, and one representative each from the Justice, Labor, Commerce and Treasury Departments, the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Federal Trade Commission.

To finance the inquiry, $500,000 would be provided. Of that amount, $100,000 would be placed at the disposal of the committee and the remaining $400,000 would be allocated by the President to agencies concerned in the investigation.

An effort to limit the President's power to allocate the money, by requiring that he do so only upon recommendation of the committee, was defeated, 40 to 28.

LONE AIR RAIDER DISRUPTS SHIPPING

Insurgent Flier Wrecks Five British and French Vessels, Kills 15 Men.

MADRID, June 9.—(AP)—The whole government-held Spanish coast was on the alert tonight to trap a solitary insurgent warplane whose bombs wrecked three foreign ships yesterday and two British and French merchantmen today with at least 15 victims.

The British freighter Stanray reported today she had been machine-gunned off the Spanish government coast in an attack by the lone insurgent warplane.

No Casualties.

The Stanray reached Valencia harbor just as insurgents started a new bombardment of that city. Her officers said she had been machine-gunned by the lone raider off the British-operated port of Gandia, but had no casualties.

Damage in the Valencia bombardment was not known immediately. The raiding warplane yesterday wrecked the British freighter Isadora off Castellon de la Plana and attacked the French freighter Brisbane outside Denia harbor, killing seven persons and wounding eight.

Edward Jones, British non-intervention observer on the Brisbane, was among those killed.

A French destroyer from Denia for Marseille bearing the wounded French steamer and another stood by in the port pending an investigation of the attack.

Seamen Machine-Gunned. The 26 survivors told the French consul that the lone raider bombed the ship twice and attempted to machine-gun fleeing seamen.

Off Benicassim, another merchant ship was said to have been attacked with a loss of 12 killed and 19 wounded. Identity of the ship was not given.

(At Barcelona, captains of seven British ships protested to the British consul against insurgent air attacks on British vessels, and asked that the protest be forwarded until July 10.

The two decided the best way to test the claims as to their milking ability was to stage a contest.

Mexican and Son Kidnaped, Murdered

MEXICO CITY, June 9.—(UP)—the newspaper Universal reported today from Coatepec, Vera Cruz state, that the bullet-riddled bodies of Cosme Fernandez, wealthy farmer, and his 10-year-old grandson, were found at Barranca Grande.

They had been kidnaped for ransom three days ago.

Eleanor Holm Is Free To Marry Billy Rose

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—(AP)—Art Jarrett divorced Eleanor Holm today, for his part leaving her free to marry Billy Rose, the little man with the big shows.

Jarrett, an orchestra leader, testified the marriage was broken up by Miss Holm's frequent statements she wants to marry Rose. She also embarrassed him by losing her place on the 1936 Olympic swimming team because of a champagne incident, he said.

One remaining obstacle to a Holm-Rose wedding is Rose's marriage to Fanny Brice, and Miss Brice has been noncommittal about the whole thing.

'Sah, Cow'---Governor and Roberts To Milk Away on Capitol Lawn

With officials fighting to keep charges and counter-charges from clouding the issue, Governor Rivers and Commissioner of Agriculture Columbus Roberts will engage in a milking contest on the lawn of the state capital at 3 o'clock this afternoon to give impetus to a "Drink More Milk" campaign which the chief executive will proclaim this morning.

The milking contest grew out of a controversy which started yesterday when the Governor and Commissioner Roberts made arrangements for the "Drink More Milk" drive, beginning today and continuing until July 10.

The two decided the best way to test the claims as to their milking ability was to stage a contest. Before nightfall, Commissioner Roberts announced Hamilton Ralls, director of the State Bureau of Markets, as his second.

YANGTZE WARSHIP SUNK BY CHINESE

Japanese Vessel Was One of Group Bombarding Kweichih River Fort.

SHANGHAI, June 10.—(Friday).—(AP)—A Chinese communiqué said today Chinese bombing planes had sunk a Japanese warship on the Yangtze river at Kweichih, Anhwei province.

The warship was said to have been one of a group bombarding Kweichih, one of the river forts barring passage of Japanese to Anking, Anhwei capital, next Japanese Yangtze objective.

EMBARGO URGED TO HALT BOMBING

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—A stern demand by the State Department that Japan stop bombing non-combatant property in China drew an approving statement today from Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska.

Two FBI Agents From Atlanta Are Sent to Columbus To Investigate.

By LEE FUHRMAN, Constitution Staff Writer.

FORT BENNING, Ga., June 9. Major John R. Brooke, 45, veteran army officer and instructor at the Army Infantry School here, tonight was under military guard as military authorities and federal agents from Atlanta and Macon investigated the mysterious slaying of his brunette wife, Elizabeth.

Three branches of the United States government joined forces late tonight in an investigation of circumstances surrounding Mrs. Brooke's death.

United States Attorney T. Hoyt Davis, and his assistant, Grady Rawls, of Macon, arrived at 6 o'clock tonight along with Walter Overstreet and another agent whose name was not learned from Federal Bureau of Investigation offices in Atlanta.

Body Found.

Two daughters, Barbara, 12, and Caroline, 7, found the beaten body of Mrs. Brooke at the foot of stairs in the family quarters when they returned from play.

Brigadier General Asa L. Singleton, post commandant, said she apparently had been killed by blows to both sides of her head.

"Immediate examination by military police," he reported, "indicated the death of Mrs. Brooke could not have been due to a fall, as signs of injuries to her were found in the bathroom on the second floor and blood was found in the bathroom and on the hallway floor to the head of the stairs and down the steps."

General Singleton said Major Brooke was at maneuvers on the 97,000-acre post reservation when the body was found at 12:15 p. m., but that investigation indicated the instructor had been in his quarters at 11:45 a. m.

Military police, he said, estimated Mrs. Brooke had been dead about two hours when the daughters, Barbara Brooke, 12, and Carolyn, 7, came upon her body.

Brooks Under Guard.

Major Brooke, stockily-built native Texan, was guarded at the post hospital, where he was under physicians' care for shock. He was not available for comment but felt

Corseted Would-Be Kidnapers' Plan To Abduct Lord Nuffield Related

OXFORD, England, June 9.—(AP) A sharp-eyed retired major told an Oxford court today of a "corseted would-be kidnapers' plan" to seize Viscount Nuffield, millionaire automobile manufacturer, for $500,000 ransom and perhaps drown him at sea.

Major Arthur G. F. Ramsden, a former Royal artilleryman, testified before four magistrates against John Bruce Thornton, 50, the alleged author of a bold scheme which had as its elements a rented yacht, the Pierrette, threats of torture with surgical instruments and an array of disguises.

Thornton, charged with inciting Ramsden to help him abduct Lord Nuffield, was arrested May 24 through the combined efforts of Ramsden, Scotland Yard and Nuffield himself.

The court heard today that Thornton at the time of his arrest carried two revolvers and a kidnap note and was gassing inside tightly-laced corsets which were a part of his disguise of a red wig, false moustache, artificial eyebrows and gold teeth.

The prosecutor said the alleged plot collapsed when Ramsden informed police early in May, although the latter continued to pretend to co-operate with Thornton.

FLOOD CONTROL BILL PASSED BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—The senate passed the $375,000,000 flood control bill today and sent it back to the house for concurrence in numerous amendments.

The measure would authorize construction of approximately 250 flood control projects throughout the country.

'Oompah' Violence Is Threatening As Little Herby Jumps Into Action

Smitty's Brother Proves His Loyalty in Surprising Way After Kayo Deserts Moon's Cause; Jasper Joins in Blaming Jane.

Sad to relate, things are in a pretty regrettable state in Comediana. The Marquis of Queensberry rules were suspended immediately after Kayo Mullins' perfidy in jumping Moon's camp to support the lissome Jane Arden for election, July 4, as Oompah of Constitution comic-page characters. Among all candidates it is now catch-as-catch-can, with no holds barred. Certain of last night's happenings are related here by special correspondent. There were rumors of impending activities of such an appalling character that no word of them is published pending complete verification. It's all very awful.

By COLONEL WOOPEN BLAST, Political Commentator Extraordinaire.

A state of shock exists among seasoned observers of politics in Comediana. (Editor's Note: This includes the Colonel, whether you regard seasoning as Worcestershire sauce, horse-radish or cloves.) It is deplorable to observe what can happen once the bars are down. Nothing like this has been known since the latter stages of the Rutherford B. Hayes campaign when, as you all doubtless recall, one of the rival groups stole the entire inner fire limits of Washington, D. C., and was in the act of carrying off the fringes when detected.

It is becoming plainer hourly that Kayo Mullins started something when he bolted Moon's campaign and announced for Jane. He didn't help matters any by his little "brother, aide, confidante" and co-worker of Candidate Smitty—was stirred into action. At the only other candidate's brother of any size in the face he felt called upon to make a demonstration of loyalty.

"I'm fer Thimitty, firht, latht and 'n' the middle," he was heard muttering to himself. "I won't have it thaid that we ain't thicking together through thick 'n' thin. I'll get out 'n' show 'em."

And get out and show 'em he did. He hunted up the usually silent but ever-active little Jasper.

"I don't like you," announced Herby firmly. "I don't like your thilly way of doin'." Furthermore, I don't like your thilly little thister."

Jasper offered his hand instantly in friendship. "I don't like her, either," he admitted, "but I have to put up with her."

"Why," he countered, "do you have to put up with her if you don't like her?"

"I just do that," returned Jasper. "There ain't no way out I know of."

"She's prity," declared Herby. "She's horhty, too."

"I know, I know," admitted Jasper, wearily. They stood together, considering the problem heavily. Then Herby's earnest face lighted. He motioned Jasper to come closer, and they conferred in whispers at considerable length.

"Well," exclaimed Jasper, finally. "It might work."

"Might work, nothin'!" protested the indignant Herby. "It will work! Come on, let's get tharted."

Off they went, eagerly. Now, all this, you will admit, was suspicious. It seemed to indicate clearly that steps were about to be taken—steps which would have bearing on the political situation in Comediana.

Thus, you will not be without preparation for the amazing truth, viz:

At bedtime two startled families discovered (1) that Jasper's sister, minus hair-ribbon and garment, was sleeping soundly in the cot usually occupied by Tucker of the Three Bares, and (2) Tucker, attired in the missing garment and ribbon, was running around happily with Jasper and Herby.

"I traded her off for Tucker," Jasper explained to his surprised parents. "Herby and me 're gona work together now in this Oompah race. That is, up to a point. We're gona work together against all th' wimons, anyway."

"Yeh, that's right," Herby agreed. "We're thore at women. Lookit the way Jane Arden made Kayo turn on Moon!"

Dread direct action has begun in the race for Oompah. The candidates seemed prepared to go to any lengths. Feelings are being fanned to feverish levels. Follow the developments daily in The Constitution.

JAYCEE DELEGATION LEAVES FOR SESSION

Included in the group were Bill Horne Jr., Fain Peck, Terrell Ross, W. L. Moore Jr. and George Yancy. The delegates were given an official "send-off" at a luncheon-meeting at the Henry Grady hotel.

William A. Lynn spoke on "safe driving."

'IRIOLOGIST' FINED ON MEDICAL COUNT

Health Lecturer Read Injuries by 'Spokes' in Human Eye.

J. B. Levine, self-styled "professor of iriology—science's greatest discovery," was convicted yesterday in Fulton criminal court of practicing medicine in Georgia without a license. He was given a 12-month sentence and assessed a fine of $250.

Judge Jesse M. Wood said he would suspend the sentence, on payment of the fine, provided that Levine "not violate state laws relating to practice of medicine any further."

Defense Attorney George Starr Peck said he would appeal the verdict and Judge Wood set appeal bond at $500.

Conviction of the Philadelphia lecturer followed three days of testimony in which the "science of iriology"—reading injuries to human organs by "spokes" in the eyes—was termed a "fake" by a Fulton County Medical Society member. Levine, on the other hand, contended he was a victim of "75,000 physicians organized to stop anything new."

The "professor" contended he taught the science of iriology, teaching persons "what to eat today to stay healthy tomorrow," on the theory that man is a "human radio" whose eyes emit waves of electricity from certain organs of the body. Physicians testified Levine's lectures constituted practice of medicine.

Partly Cloudy Skies, Showers Predicted

Summer-like conditions will continue in the Atlanta area today with partly cloudy skies and possibly occasional showers, the United States Weather Bureau predicted last night.

Yesterday's temperature range was from a minimum of 69 to a maximum of 85 degrees and extremes today are expected to be about 70 and 84 degrees.

HOME TESTED RECIPES

BY Sally Saver

There are many ways to fix a vegetable, and the wise woman knows which vegetables are favorites with her folks and knows not only one or two ways to fix them but a dozen ways.

Here are four good recipes, the prize winners this week, for you to add to your stock in trade:

Baked Vegetable Hash.
Pare and quarter five small potatoes, pare one-fourth of a small cucumber, break up one small head of cauliflower, wash and scrape one carrot and remove center and seeds from one green pepper.

Wash and peel one small onion. Run all through food-chopper, using the coarse blade. Place in buttered baking dish, add one teaspoon salt and one-half cup milk. Cover with crumbs, dot generously with butter, cover and bake for 40 minutes in hot oven, uncovering during the last 15 minutes in order to brown. Serves six.

MRS. ROBERT G. HICKLIN,
1356 Moore's Mill road, Atlanta, Ga.

Squash Ring.

2 pounds of tender squash.
1 large onion.
1 cup thick cream sauce.
3 eggs.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Wash and slice squash. Peel and slice onion. Boil in salted water till well done. Squeeze through a potato masher and let drain thoroughly.

Then add cup of thick cream sauce and three well-beaten eggs. Have a ring mould with greased brown paper in bottom. Grease the paper and sides of mould with butter. Pour in the squash mixture and place it in a pan of water.

Bake either in the oven or on top of stove until thoroughly done. It takes about an hour to bake. Turn on platter when done and fill inside of ring with creamed carrots or English peas and surround the ring with buttered baby beets.

MRS. W. D. GIBSON,
Senoia, Ga.

Beans, Southern, Black Pot, or One Unit Style.

1-2 gallon snap beans.
1 pint butter beans.
6 medium sized Irish potatoes.
6 "baby" squash or sweet corn.
12 pods of fresh okra.
1 quart ham on bacon stock, or 1 cup drippings or oils, with water to cover beans.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-2 teaspoon sugar.
Put on green beans with meat stock or water, boil generously for 30 minutes, then put the other vegetables on top. Sprinkle lightly with black pepper and place small bits of butter over them, and cook until almost "dry".

Serve with sliced tomatoes, best pickle and bran or corn muffins.

FOR A COOL SUMMER.

There really is no percentage in milling around in an oven-hot kitchen in the warm summer days. Let up on roasts, oven-broiled steaks and meat loaves for a while. Try braising your meats instead. Investigate the possibilities of creamed dishes and delicately sauteed foods. Remember your refrigerator, too, and plan to plumb its possibilities. Tuck cold dishes in your menus whenever you can. Let the refrigerator work for you in preparing chilled desserts, salads and quick cold meat loaves. And by all means don't forget those delicious ready-to-serve canned foods up there on your pantry shelf. You'll be able to build many a quick meal around them.

Shells of Sea Food au Gratin.
Flake coarsely two 7-ounce cans tuna fish. Melt in top of double boiler 2 tablespoons butter and stir in 1 cupful finely flaked fresh bread crumbs and remove to dish. Melt 4 tablespoons butter in same pan, then cook tuna fish in it until thoroughly heated.

Combine fish with 2 medium (17-ounce) cans cooked macaroni, 2 canned pimientos, cut in shreds; 1 teaspoonful worcestershire sauce. Place pan over lower part of double boiler and heat for 20 minutes. Remove to individual sea shells or serving platter and top with buttered bread crumbs. Serve very hot. Serves 6 to 8.

Cubed Tomato Salad.
Skin 6 medium tomatoes and chill.

Combine and chill
1 cupful shredded cabbage
1 cupful diced cucumber
1 small onion, diced
1 teaspoonful sugar
1-2 teaspoonful salt
2 to 3 tablespoonfuls sandwich spread.

Cut each tomato into sections from top to within 1-2 inch of bottom, making cuts 1-2 inch apart. Turn tomatoes 1-4 way around and make same number of similar cuts, cutting the tomato in criss-cross fashion. Place each tomato in a cup of lettuce, then separate the sections slightly and sprinkle with salt. Pile vegetable mixture high on top of tomatoes.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Kidney Beans.
Put 1 medium (18-ounce) can oven baked red kidney beans in strainer and pour boiling water over them.

Drain and cool.

Mix beans with 1 cupful celery, chopped.

2 tablespoonfuls India relish

1-2 teaspoonful salt.

Moisten with mayonnaise and let stand in refrigerator until chilled.

Skin and cool 6 tomatoes.

Cut thin slice from stem end and remove pulp. Sprinkle tomato cups with salt, then fill with bean mixture. Replace tops and garnish with watercress. Arrange in nests of crisp lettuce leaves and serve with mayonnaise.

Cream Fruit Pie With Graham Cracker Crust.

1 1-2 cupfuls graham cracker crumbs

2 tablespoonfuls brown sugar

5 tablespoonfuls butter, melted

2 tablespoonfuls peanut butter.

Combine above ingredients. Pat into a 9-inch pie pan. Cover with sliced bananas or fresh fruit in season and fill with a thick cream filling. Chill 3 hours in cold refrigerator. Top with whipped cream and serve cold. Loosen carefully around edges in cutting.

South Georgia Vine-Ripened TOMATO SHOW.

Sally heard good news today. Many of the peach growers are attempting to send to market tree-ripened peaches. And when you get one of these peaches you really bite into a juicy, toothsome, tender morsel.

The tomato growers of south Georgia are doing it, too. This week they are having, under the auspices of the Farmers' Market on Ponce de Leon avenue, a tomato show, from June 9 to 11. They hope to thus acquaint Atlanta consumers of the fact that vine-ripened tomatoes are available here. Nothing can compare with field ripened fruits and vegetables.

Visit the market this week and see for yourself. Georgians should be using Georgia tomatoes, and we have the advantage in that the closeness of our markets in Georgia makes it possible to have the vine-ripened product.

After you see these red, full bodied tomatoes you'll want new ways to use them. Try this one sometime:

Tomatoes With Egg Plant.

Another healthful combination that has coaxed many people to like egg plant is a casserole recipe which calls for 1 1-2 cups of egg plant which has been pared and cut in half inch cubes, 6 young garden onions, or 1 medium-sized onion, minced, 1 1-2 cups peeled fresh tomatoes, diced, (or you may use canned tomatoes), 1 teaspoon each of chopped green pepper and chopped pimiento; seasonings of salt, pepper and a little sugar.

Mix well and put in a buttered casserole. Add 2 tablespoons of butter scattered over the top in bits, cover and cook in a moderate oven until eggplant and the onions are done. This recipe cooks very nicely in the electric vacuum cooker which so many of us use instead of the oven during the summer season.

A New Sugar For Your COLD DRINKS.

Did you ever try using superfine powdered sugar in your iced coffee? If you haven't you really have missed something. There is a new quick dissolving superfine powdered sugar on the market which makes it easier than ever to enjoy iced coffee at its best. This 100 per cent pure cane sugar dissolves instantly even in cold drinks and sweetens your iced coffee, or iced tea, in a way that really brings out its flavor perfectly. Call Sally if you want to know where you can get this new sugar.

Iced coffee, rightly made, is a tempting drink and here is an excellent recipe. Serve it with superfine powdered sugar and plain or whipped cream.

Iced Coffee With Coffee Ice Cubes.

Make coffee, using 2 level measuring tablespoons of coffee to each measuring cup of water. Fill ice trays in mechanical refrigerator with the coffee while it is still fresh. Place the frozen coffee cubes in tall glasses just before serving.

Then fill the glasses with hot freshly-made coffee of the same strength as that used for the coffee ice cubes. Sugar and cream to taste. Make more coffee than you will serve at any given meal and use this to replenish your coffee ice cube supply.

MILK AND VEGETABLES NECESSARY FOR HEALTH.

The daily use of milk and vegetables is important for the health of every member of the family. These "protective foods" are rich in the materials which build strong bodies, help muscular action, keep digestion going normally, and aid in elimination of waste from the body.

Milk is called the almost perfect food. It is rich in the mineral elements which form the structure of bones and teeth; it contains certain vitamins, particularly A, B, G and D, each of which makes its contribution to good health. Every adult should have at least a pint of milk a day, and every child, a quart.

All producers and distributors of milk are beginning a drive today, which will continue through the month, to acquaint you with the importance of milk in your diet. To omit milk from your daily diet is like letting your health insurance lapse.

Here is a delicious recipe using fish, vegetables, and milk. It is a simple, wholesome dish.

Fish Chowder.

1 pound haddock
5 potatoes
1 sliced onion
4 cups milk
3 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper
Wash haddock and cut in small pieces. Peel potatoes, cut in small pieces and boil for 5 minutes in small quantity of water. Add sliced onion and the fish. Cook together until fish is done. Add the milk and butter. Season with salt and pepper. Heat. Five or six servings.

MILK BOARD BACKS POWELL DISMISSAL

No Successor Selected To Supervise Macon and Cordele Sheds.

By the Associated Press.

Officials of the State Milk Control Board announced last night the board had approved the action of Director Charles Duncan in dismissing Justin B. Powell as supervisor for the Macon and Cordele milk sheds.

They said Powell appeared before the board and discussed the Macon milk situation.

A successor to Powell was not chosen. Wilson Gordon, of Augusta, has been placed in temporary charge of the Macon and Cordele offices.

The board adopted a resolution setting an open session of the board in Macon June 27 at 3 o'clock. "To receive expressions of public sentiment from such persons as may desire to appear before the board for that purpose," it also authorized a hearing at 10 o'clock the next morning "to consider amending its order establishing prices of milk in the Macon milk shed after a public hearing."

Under Japanese law, there is no provision for alimony.

Sally Saver's Best Recipe Contest

Suggestions have been made by readers for all sorts of cooking contests. Among them are contests on entrees, lemon recipes, beverages, left-overs, and many others. And quite a number want a special contest for the men folks who like to cook. Suppose some of you masculine culinary experts, and Sally knows some of you certainly can cook, drop me a line if you favor such a contest. If a sufficient number of you do so, we will have it.

Today we'll have the contest on favorite desserts—that should be a good one and an easy contest for you to win. Sally just knows you have a good recipe for a dessert, so please send it to her today.

You'll win $1 if your recipe is published in this column. Send it to Sally Saver, care of The Constitution, not later than Tuesday of next week. Let's go!

NAVAL HERO'S WIFE MAY LOSE HOME

HOLC Foreclosure Starts Day Mate Is Honored.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(P)—Representative O'Toole, Democrat, New York, said today he had appealed to Marvin McIntyre, secretary to the President, and John H. Fahey, chairman of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, to stop foreclosure proceedings against the home of Mrs. Sadie L. Monssen, widow of a naval hero.

Mrs. Monssen, resident of Brooklyn, received notice of foreclosure action for failure to meet payments on an HOLC mortgage on the same day she was informed by the Navy Department that a new destroyer would be named Monssen in honor of her husband.

Lieutenant Mons Monssen, who died in 1930, saved the battleship Missouri in 1904 when fire threatened its powder magazine. He beat out the flames with his bare hands.

MRS. TOMLINSON, 85, DIES AT HOME HERE

Mrs. Jessie E. Tomlinson, 85, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 1515 Olympian way, S. W., after an illness of five weeks.

Born in McDonough, Mrs. Tomlinson had lived here for the last 30 years. She was a member of the McDonough Baptist church.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Sallie T. Hearn, Atlanta; Mrs. Howell A. Adams, McDonough; and Mrs. C. B. Payne, Atlanta, and a son, R. H. Tomlinson, Memphis. Funeral services will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Jailer Is Prisoner's 'Best Man' As He Weds Carnival Sweetheart

Antonio Ferrelli Marries 18-Year-Old Girl Who Was To Testify Against Him; 'Wedding Luncheon' Given for Couple in Tower.

Prison bars were no bar to the romance of a prisoner at Fulton tower. He was married yesterday, given a "wedding luncheon" in the jail and hope for freedom. The bride was an 18-year-old girl who had been held to testify against him on a burglary charge.

But the groom, Antonio Ferrelli, 26, of Pittsburgh, Penn., pleaded guilty June 2 and was given a 12-month sentence, the last four months to be served on probation.

Yesterday, deputy sheriffs escorted him to the courthouse where he bought a marriage license and wed the girl, Ellen Louise Ansted, of Rome. Judge Luther Z. Rosser Jr., in municipal court, performed the ceremony. Two deputies were witnesses while Chief Jailer A. B. (Bud) Foster was the "best man." He took the groom back to jail after the ceremony.

At the tower, the two were served a special lunch while they recalled how their romance began. Louise, the daughter of an army lieutenant in charge of a Tennessee CCC camp, was a dancer in a carnival at Lakewood. He was the carnival electrician.

In spite of parental opposition, their romance bloomed and the father finally relented. Deputies at the tower said an attorney was seeking to release the groom on probation. Ferrelli was convicted of burglarizing the house of R. J. Sims, at Lakewood avenue, and Pryor road, of a radio and a woman's wrist watch.

HENRY HILLBRATH, 69, BURIED IN SAVANNAH

Funeral services for Henry Hillbrath, 69, former Atlantan, and Texas representative of Williamson, Inman & Company, cotton dealers, who died Tuesday night at his home in Houston, were held yesterday afternoon in Savannah. A native of Germany, Hillbrath was connected with Savannah cotton firms for 30 years before coming here in 1919. He was transferred to Texas 13 years ago. He was widely known as a cotton exporting specialist.

GRANDMOTHER'S COOK BOOK

HUCKLEBERRY PUDDING—One and half pints milk, 1 pint bread crumbs, 1 quart berries, 3 eggs, 1 tablespoon butter. Soak the bread in the milk. Add eggs, well beaten separately; butter, a little sugar

(about 2 tablespoons). Add the berries last. Then pour into a deep dish and bake about 45 minutes in a moderately hot oven. Serve with butter and sugar sauce.

(Next Week: Hagar's Coconut Cake.)

Ed. Note: In the spring of 1864, the south continued its bitter struggle for food. Rumor had it that in Charleston a barrel of potatoes sold for a barrel of Confederate money. With four growing boys, Caroline Jenkins found the problem of food an acute one. Spring was here without its usual promise of green things growing in the fields, but wild grapes and berries were still to be found in the woods. She called her oldest son and talked things over with him. Early the next day the boys returned from the woods with large buckets of dewy huckleberries. (Copyright, N. J. Bond.)

More Suggestions Are Sought To Select 'Most Unusual Father'

Constitution To Announce Winner June 18; Many Prizes of $1 Each Will Be Paid; First-Place "Tip" Will Receive $5; Readers Urged To Act Promptly.

Somewhere within the limits of the Greater Atlanta area is a man who, for one reason or another, deserves the title of "Atlanta's most unusual father."

The Constitution is determined to find him so that he may be given proper recognition as a part of the national observance of Father's Day on June 19.

Since the most likely candidates for the honor probably would feel some hesitancy in nominating themselves, readers of The Constitution are being asked to help by sending in suggestions to the Father's Day contest editor.

Several already have been received but still more are wanted in order to cover the widest possible field. The sum of $1 will be awarded for each suggestion used as the basis of a story during the contest and $5 will be awarded for the winning suggestion.

All suggestions or nominations must be in by midnight of Thursday, June 16, and the winner will be announced June 18. The only requirement is that he must live in Greater Atlanta, which includes Buckhead, Decatur, College Park, East Point and Hapeville.

Surely, that much territory should have scores or even hundreds of men worthy of consideration as "unusual fathers."

By "unusual" is meant someone who is being a father under difficult or out-of-the-ordinary conditions and is doing it with at least a fair degree of success.

It might be a man who, having lost his wife, has succeeded in being both father and mother to one or more children and is doing a creditable job of raising them to manhood and womanhood.

It could be a man who is making a home for one or more adopted children and is giving them advantages of home life they could not have otherwise enjoyed.

Perhaps it is an "uncle" who has assumed the duties of a father for a deceased brother or sister and thereby falls into the "unusual" classification.

Maybe it is a youngster who married in his teens in spite of depressions and recessions and is still fulfilling his duties as a father although his responsibilities have increased.

Don't wait until the last minute as all tips must be investigated before they can be published. By acting promptly you may have the honor of nominating the winning candidate in addition to winning the $5 prize.

In order to avoid mistakes, it is preferable to have suggestions in writing, but if this is inconvenient just telephone The Constitution.

M'GILL TO SPEAK TO FORT MASONS
Sojourners' Chapter Will Hear Sports Editor.

Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution, will speak at the monthly meeting of Fort McPherson Chapter No. 60, National Sojourners, at 8 o'clock Tuesday night.

A Dutch supper will be served at 7 o'clock to all Master Masons attending. McGill, who has just returned to Atlanta from a tour through Europe, the Scandinavian peninsula and the British Isles, will be guest speaker.

MOORE IS SLATED FOR RE-ELECTION BY STATE EDITORS

Georgia Press Association Members Hold Street Dance in Swainsboro.

By HERMAN HANCOCK, Staff Correspondent.

SWAINSBORO, Ga., June 9.—Re-election of Jere N. Moore, Milledgeville, as president, and J. Roy McGinty, Calhoun, as vice president, and probable designation of Calhoun as the convention city for 1939 tonight were expected as major actions of the closing business sessions tomorrow of the fifty-second annual meeting of the Georgia Press Association.

It was regarded as a certainty that the president of giving the president and other officers with him a second term will be followed in the balloting.

Members climaxed a day of studies during the morning with a visit to Jim Fowler's "Million Pines" plantation in Treutlen county during the afternoon, and a street dance tonight in front of the John C. Coleman hotel, convention headquarters.

The morning session stressed the "golden opportunity of proper development of the state's forests and their products."

Asks Forest Protection.
Dr. Charles H. Herty, Savannah scientist, delivered an impressive and strong address in which he urged approval of a constitutional amendment permitting expenditure of county funds for the protection of forests against the ravages of fires.

"If the fire hazard could be eliminated, the savings in 15 years would amount to $300,000,000," he added.

He appealed for editorial cooperation in building public sentiment against fire waste, and proposed a fire protection system on a county-wide basis for every Georgia county.

President Moore delivered the president's annual address, calling on members of the organization to continue their work in behalf of the people of Georgia.

James C. Seymour, of Minnesota, newly-designated field representative of the Georgia association, outlined objectives of the central office, which will be maintained at Emory University.

He was introduced by Professor Raymond Nixon, of Emory's journalism department, who said Emory is co-operating with the association in establishing the position "in the hope that, by organization, the exchange of ideas and working together, the newspapers of Georgia may be even better prepared to serve their state and nation."

Activities Are 6-Fold.

Seymour said the proposed activities were six-fold: Advertising promotion, control of free publicity, public relations work with the government, its subdivisions, merchandising helps, a monthly magazine and weekly bulletin to members, and miscellaneous services to publishers.

He asked the editors to sign an agreement not to run publicity unless it had the endorsement of their officers as non-commercial. He said free publicity diverted "thousands of dollars from legitimate advertising fields to this back-door method of reaching the public."

Ike Hay, assistant United States district attorney, recommended creation of a special commission of Georgia editors to study libel laws and to decide on legislation required to "give the public and Georgia publishers the protection to which they are entitled."

He pointed out that the state's laws in this respect are antiquated and hazy, and that it is difficult to determine libel from privileged material.

Editors Responsible.
"Under present laws, Georgia editors are responsible for the Familiar Figures at Georgia Press Convention

These were familiar faces among the early arrivals in Swainsboro for the annual convention of the Georgia Press Association. Mrs. Collins Bird is shown as she greeted (left to right) H. H. Trotter, vice president and business manager of The Constitution; Governor Rivers, who addressed the gathering at its first session, and Jere Moore, of the Milledgeville Union Recorder, president of the association.

truth of news articles furnished them by recognized news services from Hongkong, China, or anywhere else, even though the stories may be printed with the utmost good faith," he added.

"The state court of appeals has held that failure to specify that accounts of stories from another state were furnished by an officer of the law is libel, and if the supreme court takes the same position, Georgia newspapers will be forced to publish the source of all such stories."

The danger of libel, he said, lurks on every printed page.

He outlined the pitfalls and exigencies of Georgia's libel laws, and suggested legislative amendments for protection against unwarranted litigation should be sought through a commission or committee representing the press as a whole.

Duties of Commission.

"The duties of such a commission or committee," he said, "would be (1) To make a careful study of the newspaper laws of this state, in comparison and contrast with the laws of other states; (2) Determine what changes appear to be necessary in the light of present-day conditions; (3) Submit its recommendations to the publishers of the state for approval; (4) Acquaint the legislative members and the general public with the merits of the approved recommendations; and (5) Seek to have the approved proposals enacted into law."

Mrs. Robin Wood, director of the Georgia Rural-Urban Woman's program for the State Department of Agriculture, will speak on the activities of her department tomorrow morning.

New Constitution.

A special order of business is adoption of a new constitution and by-laws for the association.

Lon Sullivan, educational director of the State Department of Public Safety, will discuss "Safety On the Highways." Announcement of trophy winners for the year, reports of the resolutions and other committees, and election of officers will complete the business program for the day.

A visit will be made to Tattnall prison, near Reidsville, for noon lunch, and inspection of the prison will feature the afternoon. A dinner-dance at which members of the First District Press Association will be hosts is slated for the night.

Miss Frankie Trappnell, editor of the News, Soperton, is president of the district group.

LOWER FIRE RATE SOUGHT IN ATHENS

Council Moves To Save Citizens $30,000 Yearly.

ATHENS, Ga., June 9.—City council has voted to comply with requests of the Southeastern Fire Underwriters' Association to obtain a reduction in rates that would save citizens approximately $30,000 a year on merchandise, building and residential buildings.

By a unanimous vote, council decided to add three men as city firemen and to revise the building code as soon as the underwriters make a new rating here. In addition, the fire limits have been extended, and it has been agreed that fire prevention ordinances will be adopted when the rate is lowered.

According to information given a council committee by officials of the Underwriters' Association, insurance rates on merchandise would be lowered from 60 cents to 48 cents per $100; on business houses from 50 cents to 40 cents; and on residences from 32 cents to 28 cents.

RIVERSIDE CHOSEN AS HONOR SCHOOL

GAINESVILLE, Ga., June 9.—The War Department has notified General Sandy Beaver, president of Riverside Military Academy here, that the institution again has been named on the list of honor schools.

Riverside, reputed to be the nation's largest military preparatory school, has appeared on the honor list annually since 1923, a longer consecutive period than attained by any other southern school between Virginia and New Mexico.

JUDGE PITTMAN ASKS RE-ELECTION

Cherokee Circuit Jurist Is Opposed by Dalton Attorney.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., May 9. Judge Claude C. Pittman, of the Cherokee judicial circuit, formally announced his candidacy for re-election yesterday. He had previously paid his entrance fee to the state Democratic committee.

Judge Pittman is holding over as the result of the death of Judge-elect J. C. McFarland, who defeated him in the primary two years ago, but died before taking office. Ex-Governor Talmadge appointed a successor to Judge Pittman, but the supreme court, in a series of decisions, ruled Pittman was entitled to hold office until another successor was elected.

"The supreme court decision left some doubt as to whether a judge should be elected this year or two years hence, but I have decided to leave that question to the people of my district," Judge Pittman said.

Senate Votes Funds For Clarks Hill Dam

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—The senate agreed today to a $1,700,000 addition to the flood control bill to purchase land for the proposed Clark's Hill dam on the Savannah river.

The item was proposed by Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, who said he believed President Roosevelt would approve the $21,500,000 dam as a WPA project if provision were made for purchasing the property.

The measure is merely an authorization and does not make appropriations.

ROAD WORK TO CONTINUE.

CANTON, Ga., June 9.—Contract to continue the Hickory Flat road construction as far as Indian Knoll has been received by Commissioner Holcomb of Cherokee county. It is a post-road project. Another post-road in lower Cherokee is to enter Woodstock, and continue westward from Woodstock. A third such road will extend from Acworth to Canton.

John C. Mitchell, Dalton attorney, whose candidacy was announced several days ago.

WORK WILL BEGIN ON ROME PROJECT

Storm Drainage System To Cost $20,000.

ROME, Ga., June 9.—Work will begin here next week on a $20,000 storm drainage project recently approved by WPA for Rome, according to First Commissioner H. H. Keel.

Flood control work in the fourth ward area also is progressing at a rapid rate, Mr. Keel said. Between 300 and 400 feet of fill, 10 feet high, already has been placed in the vicinity of the city softball park.

Commissioner Keel said Colonel F. B. Wilby, of the corps of United States army engineers, Gulf of Mexico division, and Colonel Richard Park, district engineer, expressed satisfaction with the Rome flood control project.

when taken on a tour of inspection Tuesday. They also visited the site of the proposed Allatoona flood control reservoir project on the Etowah river, north of Cartersville.

BRANDY CONFISCATED.

BLUE RIDGE, Ga., June 9.—Federal officers, aided by the forces of Sheriff Jim Hawkins, of Fannin county, confiscated 250 gallons of brandy during a raid in the upper end of Fannin county Tuesday night.

BUILT HUSKY FOR ROUGH GOING

- and a WHALE of an economy buy!

JUST give this husky Goodyear Speedway tire the once-over.

Feel it. Heft it. Examine it.

You'll want the slow wear, the long life that you see in the width and depth of that massive tread.

You'll want the non-skid traction provided by those sure-gripping arrowhead blocks, right in the tread-center where you need them.

You'll want those stout shoulders to grab hold and pull you through no matter how heavy the going.

And — here's the kind of news you like!

This rugged, robust, Goodyear tire starts at only $6.15 for the 4.40-21 size.

And that's a "buy" at a bargain — value you won't get, can't get in little-known or off-brand tires that cost just as much — quality that Goodyear makes sure of in ample measure in every tire that bears its name.

Goodyear quality through and through, but priced as low as $6.15 for the 4.40-21 size

Speedways GRIP better because they have anti-skid teeth of sturdy rubber blocks in the center of the tread where grip is needed most.

Just like the teeth of a gear wheel, Speedway shoulder-blocks dig into the sides of ruts, driving the wheel on through.

Kidnap Probe Co-operation Brings Praise

MIAMI, Fla., June 9.—(P)—The G-men and the local authorities swapped compliments tonight on the Cash kidnapping case.

Said Sheriff D. C. Coleman: "The federal men have been of invaluable help to the local authorities throughout and I am deeply appreciative of the fine work they have done."

Said J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation: "Sheriff Coleman has given us the most magnificent co-operation we have ever received anywhere in the United States."

Attorney General Cummings telegraphed Hoover from Washington that the outcome of the case was "a striking illustration of what can be accomplished through the co-operation of federal and local authorities with the wholehearted assistance of the public."

note was crumpled into a ball when found. McCall and his wife had occupied a rear apartment in the Cash residence until last April and the prisoner often played with the child. After the boy was reported missing he joined the father in his excursion which resulted in the finding of one ransom note at the home of Asbury Cash, one of the boy's three uncles. He also participated in the hunt for the body.

The circumstance that McCall did not own an automobile and that all developments in the case took place within two miles of the Cash home strengthened the authorities' suspicions. Coleman said it had been learned that McCall received the ransom from Cash after signalling him with a flashlight while standing in an orange grove beside the highway along which the father had been directed to drive.

McCall was born in Jasper, Fla., where his father, a Nazarene pastor, died last February 28. His mother, at St. Augustine, Fla., appeared dazed at news of her son's arrest and said she "never dreamed of such a thing."

"The boy has been in no trouble before in his life," she added. McCall's wife and mother had left Princeton before Hoover announced the arrest. The attitude of the farmers there toward the developments in the case was more sorrowful than vengeant.

Crowds gathered outside the FBI office in Miami throughout the day, but they were mostly curiosity seekers. The sheriff's office arranged to augment the guards in the county jail, which also is atop a skyscraper, when McCall was transferred there.

The FBI field office at Princeton was abandoned late in the day and all activity centered here.

TENNESSEE PROJECTS CUT FROM FLOOD BILL

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(P)—A proposed survey for flood control on the Tennessee river in the Chattanooga, Tenn.-Rossville, Ga. area was eliminated today from the omnibus flood control bill.

Chairman Copeland, Democrat, New York, agreed to inclusion of the project by the commerce committee, but members decided later the survey, if undertaken, should be handled by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, said there was no reason to include the project in an omnibus bill because the survey would be duplication of work that might be undertaken by TVA.

warded to the Foreign Office.) Four persons were killed and 18 wounded when five insurgent planes bombed Alicante this afternoon in the second attack there today. No casualties or property damage were suffered in the first raid.

The purpose of the lone raider's bombardment on foreign ships has seemed to be to strike a death blow to international commerce in government ports.

Midnight Attack. In each case he has been sure of his objective through day-time reconnaissance flights. He has swooped down at about midnight on his victims with three to six bombs, dropping them from stem to stern of each vessel.

Afterward he has flown about, machine-gunning the men and craft with incendiary and armor-piercing bullets.

That has continued until dwindling fuel has forced him to return to his base.

ENGLAND, FRANCE AROUSING BY RAIDS

LONDON, June 9.—(P)—An epidemic of deadly air raids on British and French shipping spurred British and French today to seek concrete measures to halt Spanish insurgent attacks.

Ten British ships have been attacked in the last two weeks. The number involved since the Spanish civil war broke out in July, 1936, totals 60 and it was estimated 28 British seamen were killed and approximately 50 were injured in all.

VATICAN REBUKES CIVILIAN BOMBERS

VATICAN CITY, June 9.—(P)—Protest and indignation against bombardment of the Spanish civil population were declared "justified" by L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, in its news summary of the Spanish war today.

The article said "European attention is drawn at this moment to bombardments of civil populations, which have aroused protests and indignation. . . . These protests are justified by the fact that the centers bombarded have no military interest nor are they near military centers or public buildings which affect war."

KIDNAP SHERIFF LIVED IN LAURENS

MIAMI OFFICER CREDITED WITH Suspect's Arrest.

DUBLIN, Ga., June 9.—Sheriff D. C. Coleman of Miami, who was credited with making the arrest of Franklin Pierce McCall, which resulted in federal officers locating the kidnapped Cash child's body and the ransom money early today, is a former resident of Laurens county.

He was born near Chester, 18 miles west of Dublin, and lived here until 15 years ago, when he went to Florida. He is a cousin of Sheriff I. F. Coleman, of Laurens county. His father was the late Isom Coleman, of Chester.

United States shipments of war materials to both China and Japan be compiled, and said that if they showed Japan was receiving more of those materials than China he would favor legislation stopping shipments to both countries.

Grew Presents Protest. The request for an end to attacks on non-military objectives was handed to Japanese officials at Tokyo today by Joseph Grew, United States ambassador.

While the protest was going forward, the State Department published old records showing that in 1917 the United States and Japan reached a secret understanding binding each other not to take advantage of the present conditions to seek special rights or privileges in China which would abridge the rights of the subjects or citizens of other friendly states.

The understanding was a "secret protocol" of the so-called Lansing-Ishii agreement concluded between the secretaries of state of the United States and Japan. The agreement later was canceled after a part of it was incorporated in another accord relating to China.

The hitherto undisclosed "protocol" was published with Japan's consent, although the consent was believed to be reluctant.

CHIANG ASKS AID OF FRIENDLY POWERS

SHANGHAI, June 10.—(Friday).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, leader of war-torn China, called upon friendly powers today to fulfill their treaty obligations by giving China positive assistance.

Chiang made the plea in a formal statement issued last night at Hankow, provisional Chinese capital, as his people fled before the invading Japanese, evacuating their homes in three cities in one of the greatest mass exoduses in recent history.

Earlier, Japanese attacked the Canton area for the thirteenth consecutive day.

MRS. J. T. GRIFFETH.
CORNELIA, Ga., June 9.—Mrs. J. T. Griffith died yesterday in a hospital in Toccoa. She had lived in Cornelia 25 years, having moved here from Atlanta. She is survived by her husband and five sisters, Mrs. J. M. Spinks, Mrs. L. A. Garrison and Mrs. L. Adams, of Atlanta, and Mrs. I. N. Thompson and Mrs. C. A. Williams, of Columbus. Rites were held today in the First Baptist church here, the Rev. A. J. Johnson officiating. Burial was in West View cemetery.

CHILDREN'S PLEAS DOWNED BY FAITH OF SNAKE VICTIM

HAMMOND, La., June 9.—(P)—A son and daughter, with an ambulance waiting, pleaded today with Mrs. Joe Rushing, 56, to accept medical treatment for a poisonous snakebite.

Mrs. Rushing, a member of the Holiness sect of the Church of God, had said since she was bitten by a cottonmouth moccasin at religious services Sunday night that she would rely on faith to cure her.

Mrs. Johnnie Mae Wilson, her daughter, arrived late today from Hazlehurst, Miss., in an ambulance and, with tears in her eyes, asked her mother to go to a hospital. "My faith has kept me alive this long," Mrs. Rushing said, "and it might kill me to leave now."

Mrs. Rushing was bitten twice on the left hand. Observers said today the arm was so swollen it "looked ready to pop open."

MORGAN DECLARES VIEWS WORTHLESS

Says Business Opinion 'Not Worth a Damn.'

NEW YORK, June 9.—(P)—J. P. Morgan, multi-millionaire banker, said tonight his opinion on business and politics "isn't worth a damn."

His deprecatory remark was made in a cloakroom after he handed out 128 diplomas at commencement exercises of Cooper Union.

"What do you think of the chances to succeed these grads have as compared with other days," he was asked.

"Now, you know I don't talk about those things," Morgan countered. "Why is it that you refuse to express an opinion on business and politics?"

"Because I don't think my opinion is worth a damn," replied the tall, husky banker.

Morgan attended as senior trustee of the union. He said he had "great fun" shaking hands with all the graduates.

SCHOOL WILL OFFER EARLY MORNING CLASS

Early morning classes for persons who work during the day will be held this summer by the Atlanta Opportunity school, Charles H. Kicklighter, principal, announced yesterday.

The Opportunity school opens its first summer session Monday. Classes will be held from 7 o'clock to 12 noon each school day for six weeks. Though regular class hours begin at 8 o'clock in the morning, Kicklighter said many persons who go to work at that hour will be benefitted by the extra early period beginning at 7 o'clock. Commercial subjects and power sewing will be taught. Offices will be open this week for registration.

MAJOR AT BENNING HELD IN SLAYING

FBI Agents From Atlanta Are Sent to Columbus To Investigate.

low officers said he denied any knowledge of how his wife was slain.

Two agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were summoned by FBI offices in Atlanta.

The body of Mrs. Brooke, her head crushed, was found on the first floor of the seven-room, Spanish-type house, General Singleton said in a statement issued through Colonel Bruce Magruder, executive officer.

There was blood about the face and head of Mrs. Brooke, and on the floor, near her head. The body was lying at the foot of the stairway leading from the front hall to the second floor.

After finding their mother dead, the children ran out of the house to quarters of a neighbor, who re-entered the house with them. Post medical authorities were notified and the body of Mrs. Brooke was taken to the reservation hospital.

Residents of the famous army post were aroused by the incident.

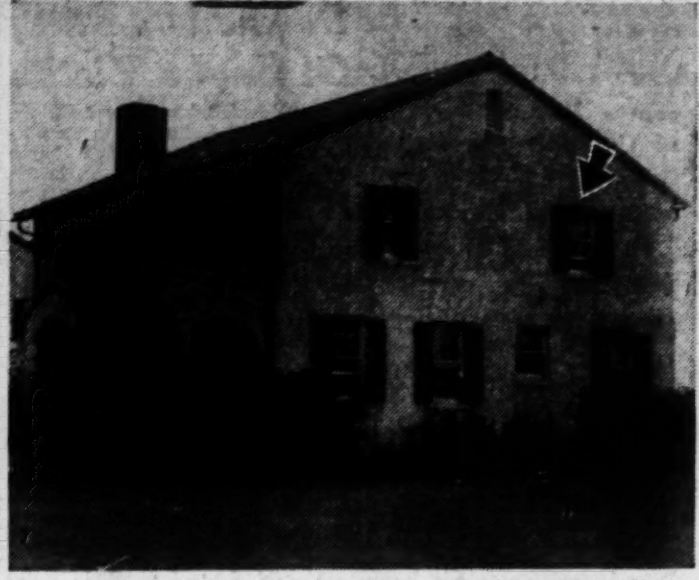

FBI Agents Notified.

Military police were stationed at the Brooke home at 209 Lumpkin road, on the reservation, and none but investigators was allowed to enter. General Singleton said that in addition to notifying Atlanta FBI agents he had communicated with United States Attorney T. Hoyt Davis, at Macon.

Mrs. Brooke's death, an autopsy disclosed, resulted from cerebral hemorrhage caused by blows on the head. The blows were on both sides of the head, according to the general's statement.

The autopsy revealed four triangular shaped fractures on the left side of the head, and a larger, crushing fracture on the right. Doctors said death came quickly.

Where Army Officer's Wife Was Found Slain

Here's the attractive, Spanish-type quarters of Major John R. Brooke, veteran army officer, on the Fort Benning military reservation where tragedy struck shortly after noon Wednesday. The body of Mrs. Brooke was found at the foot of the stairway on the first floor. Arrow points to window of a bathroom in the right-hand corner of the house where bloodstains were found.

As military police held Major Brooke under close restraint, Colonel Magruder declined to amplify reasons for holding him under strict surveillance in the post hospital.

He said it was "common practice to place men in restraint in hospitals."

Mrs. Brooke, 42, was the former Miss Elizabeth Gehart, of Fond du Lac, Wis., situated about 60 miles from Milwaukee. She was a member of the Parent-Teacher Association and the Fort Benning Woman's Club.

Mrs. Brooke at one time was stationed at Fort McPherson, a class annual of the Army School of Nursing, Walter Reed hospital in Washington, showed. The annual showed her a graduate of the class of 1921 and dubbed her with the phrase, "monarch of all she surveys."

She also had been stationed at

Fox Hills, N. Y., and had studied nursing at Bellevue hospital, in New York, and the McLean hospital, at Waverly, Mass., the annual biography stated.

She also was interested in social and welfare work. Besides her daughters, she is survived by a son, John (Buddy) Brooke, 9. The body was later taken to an undertaking establishment here.

Major Brooke, tall, handsome and weighing more than 200 pounds, with gray hair at the temples, has an army background. He was born on a post in Texas June 12, 1893, the son of Colonel and Mrs. William Brooke. His father was retired in 1920 and now lives in San Antonio, Texas.

Major Brooke's parents were expected to arrive here tomorrow morning. They notified military authorities tonight they were leaving San Antonio immediately.

Colonel Brooke, retired, and his wife will be met in Opelika, Ala., tomorrow and given a military escort to the reservation, where their son is being held.

Fort Benning Graduate.

During the World War, he served with the temporary rank of major. In 1930 he was graduated from the infantry school at Fort Benning, and in 1934 he was graduated from the command and general staff school. That same year, he returned to the infantry school at Fort Benning as instructor.

He became a permanent major in 1928.

The Brookes' quarters on Lumpkin road is reminiscent of a suburban home. It is two stories with a sun parlor and a sleeping porch. The roof is terra cotta. The street is lined with oak trees. Quarters of other officers are similar.

The children, now on vacation from school, are being cared for by neighbors.

The infantry school at Fort Benning is the largest in the world. There is a personnel of 6,000 men, with 1,000 officers. The reservation comprises 97,000 acres. It was established at its present site, eight miles from here, in 1919.

Court Help Sought in Determining Title to $1,000,000 Grant Building

Judicial Clarification of Captain William Daniel Grant's Will Is Asked by Descendant in Filing Petition for Ruling Here.

Court assistance in determining title to the Grant building—valued at almost $1,000,000—was sought yesterday in a petition in Fulton superior court asking judicial interpretation of the will of Captain William Daniel Grant, who erected the building in 1899 and died two years later.

Proceedings were necessitated by the death March 8 of John W. Grant, son of Captain Grant, who was given a life interest in the property in his father's will, the action set forth.

Title to the property became clouded when William D. Grant Jr., son of the late John W. Grant, also given a life interest in the property under terms of his grandfather's will, died in September, 1931.

Captain Grant's will directed that upon the death "of the particular grandson who may obtain this property under this will, the same shall go in remainder to such son of his as may bear my full name, 'William Daniel Grant.'"

The son of the late William D. Grant Jr., who also bears the name of Captain Grant, is plaintiff in the action to determine title to the property.

An added provision of the will directed that should there be no one bearing his full name, the property should go to the "descendants of my son, John W. Grant, per stirpes and not per capita."

The will directed a life interest in the property to the widow of Captain Grant, in addition to one to his son and grandson.

The action names as respondents John W. Grant Jr., Mrs. Margaret Grant Wilmer, Mrs. Anne Grant Owens, as the executors of John W. Grant, along with trustees under the will of the late Captain Grant.

John W. Grant Jr. was appointed receiver for the building to conduct its business during the court proceedings. The action was filed by the law firm of Arnold, Gambrell & Arnold.

RAIL AID UNLIKELY, RFC HEAD BELIEVES

Roads Will Have To 'Keep Scratching.'

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, said today it appeared unlikely congress would enact legislation at this session to help the railroads.

Talking to reporters after a call at the White House, he remarked, "It is pretty difficult for congress to agree on legislation affecting reorganization and other things because hearings are required and there is no time left for that."

Many of the roads are experiencing financial difficulties.

Jones said they would be left "just where they are" and would have to "keep scratching, hoping for an upturn in traffic." Many legislators agreed with him there was little chance of congress passing even emergency legislation to liberalize RFC loans for the carriers.

KARL THOMPSON LEAVES NEC POST

Served Three Years in Government Position.

Karl Thompson, formerly assistant to the chairman of the National Emergency Council here, has returned to private business after three years of service with the federal government, it was announced yesterday.

Thompson at one time was a resident of Dawson and Columbus, where he was active in business, civic and governmental affairs, and was given a leave of absence to accept his position with the emergency council. He will live in Atlanta.

Man Wanted To Try Gas—Shoots Woman

ST. LOUIS, June 9.—(AP)—A paroled convict told Chief Deputy Sheriff Arnold Willmann tonight an urge to die in the state's lethal gas chamber combined with jealous rage, prompted him to kill a woman and fire a shotgun blast into a man's chest.

Willmann said Robert West, 22, who helped construct the execution chamber while a penitentiary inmate, explained "I thought when I was building it that when I got out I would kill somebody so that I would die in it."

The woman, Mrs. Vivian Davidson, was shot to death last night as she sat in a car, and her uncle, James Bunton, of Sacramento, Cal., was seriously wounded when he ran to her aid.

FLOGGING DEFENDANT DENIES HE'S GUILTY

BARTOW, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—One of five former policemen charged with kidnaping in the Tampa flogging case testified today he had no connection with the abduction.

It was the first time any of the defendants had taken the stand in three trials during 30 months of official investigation.

F. W. Switzer, a WPA worker since he was suspended from the Tampa police force, told the jury he was not at the police station the night Eugene F. Poulnot was kidnaped and flogged.

BAKERS SIGN PACT

SEATTLE, June 9.—(AP)—Ed Hagen, secretary of the Bakery Workers' Union, whose strike closed 45 bakeries, said two bakeries, employing 15 men, signed an agreement today and would resume operations immediately.

FILIPINOS RETURNING AS VOLCANO SUBSIDES

LEGASPI, P. I., June 10.—(Friday)—(AP)—Mayon volcano subsided today after spewing ashes over the countryside in an eruption which began eight days ago.

Some refugees began returning to villages near the mountain's base, convinced their lives no longer were in danger and the Rev. Miguel Selga, volcanologist, said subsiding of the eruptions indicated the climax had been passed.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS RESIGN IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, June 9.—(AP)—Three directors of the National University here resigned today after a student mass meeting at which they were charged with mismanagement of university funds.

The resigned officials are Rector Luis Chico Goerne, Chief Officer Juan Jose Bremer and Treasurer Alfonso Bravo. The student "rebellion" against the resigned officials started last week in the school of medicine and spread to the schools of law and engineering and the preparatory school.

WANTED: Sealed unopened bottles of blended whiskies, bottled before June 10, 1938.

Here is

WE PAID $25.00 PER BOTTLE!

—for the finest whiskies of the old days . . . to prove that Crowns taste finer than even the rarest of the old blends

Seagram advertised for rare old whiskies . . . paid $25 for each sealed bottle of a bona fide blend bottled before June, 1919.

Armed with these famous premium whiskies of the old days, Seagram then called in his qualified experts—men whose judgment could be respected—and asked them to compare these old whiskies . . . side by side with Seagram's Crowns.

The whiskies were served in plain glasses. Not one knew which was which. Unanimously these men chose Crowns, as "finer tasting, smoother, mellower."

Men everywhere are choosing Crowns—for their finer taste. From July, 1935, to December, 1937—in the 14 states that publish records—more people bought Seagram's 5 and 7 Crown than all other blended whiskies in their price class combined.

Blending skill explains it. Seagram has searched the world to single out the few master blenders capable of producing that exquisite Crown taste.

Wherever you buy—think before you drink . . . say Seagram's—and be sure.

CHARLES KETTERING TO SPEAK AT TECH

Will Replace William Knudsen as Commencement Speaker Monday.

Charles F. Kettering, president and general manager of the General Motors Research Corporation, will deliver the commencement address at Georgia Tech's graduation exercises Monday morning instead of William S. Knudsen, Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, announced yesterday.

Knudsen, who originally was scheduled to address the graduating class, was unable to keep the speaking engagement because of business, Dr. Brittain said. The graduation exercises will be held at 9:15 o'clock Monday morning in the Fox theater with 300 seniors to receive degrees.

One of the country's most distinguished inventors and engineers, Kettering invented, starting, lighting and ignition devices for automobiles. He also invented, perfected and put on the market a lighting system for farm houses. Kettering is vice president of General Motors and a director in Moraine Development, the Flexible Company, Uplands Realty Company, General Motors Corporation, Moraine Development Building Company and Antioch College.

He is past president of the American Society of Automotive Engineers and a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Chemical Society, American Philosophical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Academy of Science and the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

He also has membership in the GREAT BRITAIN TO BUY 400 PLANES IN U. S.

LONDON, June 9.—(P)—The air ministry announced tonight that the British government had contracted to buy 400 planes from two American firms, the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, of Burbank, Cal., and North American Aviation, Inc., of Inglewood, Cal. Two hundred of the planes, those ordered from the Burbank firm, would be for general reconnaissance and the others for advance training.

Georgia Cast To Give Play Here Tonight

In its first venture "on the road" with a stage production, the University of Georgia theater will present Paul Osborn's comedy, "The Vinegar Tree," at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium at 8:30 o'clock tonight. The cast of seven is headed by an Atlanta girl, Miss Mary Nell McKohn.

The university players composing the cast are Miss McKohn, John Lester, of Montezuma; William Hammack, of Cutbert; Ruth Landers, of Savannah; Hugh Hill, of Griffin; Betty McDavid, of Swainsboro; and Bill White, of Rossville.

Successfully run on Broadway with Mary Boland and Warren William, the play was produced in Athens as the last of three plays presented annually by the University Theater and the Thalian-Blackfriars Dramatic Society.

The theater's stage crew, which constructed the settings for the play, will handle the changes tonight. The settings were designed by Edward O. Crouse, director of the theater.

W. R. SATTERFIELD, 47, DIES AT MARIETTA

W. R. Satterfield, 47, Cartersville contractor, died last night in a Marietta hospital after a five weeks' illness. He was the brother of S. B. Satterfield, assistant station lieutenant of the Atlanta police department.

Others surviving are three daughters: Mrs. Joel Herndon, Atlanta; Misses Ruth and Jane Satterfield, Cartersville; two sons, Bobby and William Satterfield, Cartersville; two sisters, Mrs. Nora Heist and Mrs. Frank Bailey, and two brothers, S. T. and W. M. Satterfield, Atlanta.

LINDBERGH'S SETTLE IN NEW ISLAND HOME

PENNYNAN, France, June 9.—(P)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are settling down in their new home on remote Illec island off the coast of Brittany. After quitting Long Barn, their Kentish home in England for two and one-half years, they crossed the English channel yesterday to the northwest coast of France. Residents along the coast said the Colonel, his wife, and their two sons, Jon and Lind, were installed on the rocky isle they purchased last April.

Light Romances, Films of Crime; Comedy on Theaters' Bill of Fare

'You and Me' To Open at Fox; 'Prescription for Romance,' 'Rialto,' 'Goodbye Broadway,' 'Capitol,' 'Hold That Kiss,' 'Grand,' 'Crime School,' Paramount.

By LEE ROGERS, Motion Picture Editor.
Moviegoers, what'll it be? Each theater manager has a recommendation for your week's amusement, and the new programs begin today. There are no holdovers this week.

Two pictures are built around a background of crime, one is a comedy about the life of ex-Broadway stars and two are light romances.

'Crime School,' with Humphrey Bogart and the 'Dead End' boys, opens with March of Time at the Paramount. 'You and Me' is the other criminal picture. It features Sylvia Sydney and George Raft at the Fox. The Grand plays the romantic 'Hold That Kiss' and the feature the Kiddle Revue on the stage. 'Prescription for Romance' bills Wendy Barrie and Kent Taylor in the leads at the Rialto. 'Goodbye Broadway,' with Alice Brady and Charles Winninger, opens Sunday at the Capitol.

The Adventures of Robin Hood will be the preview showing at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Fox.

'YOU AND ME' BILLED AT FOX

Taking a slightly different slant on the crime situation, 'You and Me,' opening at the Fox today, portrays the love life of two paroled convicts, forbidden to marry under terms of their release.

In the leading roles are Sylvia Sydney and George Raft.

Both have roles of ex-convicts. Raft has worked out his parole and marries Sylvia, a co-worker in a large department store. The girl, afraid of losing his love, conceals from him the fact that she is still on parole and therefore runs the risk of being re-committed to prison for marrying.

When Raft learns of her past he becomes embittered, gives up his struggle to go straight, returns to his 'mob' and is only saved from another criminal career by the daring action of his wife. Featured in the supporting cast are Roscoe Karns, George E. Stone,

RIALTO TO SHOW ROMANTIC FILM

'Prescription for Romance,' the new feature attraction at the Rialto theater starting today, is also a prescription for laughter, the advance advertisements say.

The cast includes Wendy Barrie, Kent Taylor, Mischa Auer, Dorothea Kent, Frank Jenks, Henry Hunter, Bert Roach, Frank Reicher, Christian Rub and so forth.

The story is of a New Yorker, an embezzler, who tries to escape the law by flying to Budapest. In so doing, however, he leaves behind him a girl friend, a gold-digging little wretch, who helps put the law in the person of handsome detective, on the fugitive's trail.

In Budapest the characters get involved in situations. The picture is, primarily, romantic, but there is much comedy. Of course, in the end, truth and love win out.

The newsreel shows Charlie Yates winning the British amateur golf championship.

'GOODBYE BROADWAY' COMES TO CAPITOL

'Goodbye Broadway,' an hilarious film which has to do with former vaudeville players, couples who get into all sorts of difficulty, arrives for a week's showing at the Capitol theater starting Sunday.

One of the highlights of the film is the great cast of screen and radio stars which will be seen in the production. These include Alice Brady, academy award winner; Charles Winninger, of radio's 'Show Boat' fame; Tommy Riggs and his Betty Lou from the Rudy Vallee program; Tom Brown, RKO thea Kent, Frank Jenks and a host of others.

On the stage, also starting Sunday, the Capitol will offer another splendid variety unit, the 'Winter Garden' revue, featuring eight acts of vaudeville.

'Gun Law,' the Capitol's current screen offering, starring George O'Brien, ends Saturday, along with 'Passing Parade,' the Capitol's much-talked-of stage offering.

Tonight at 9 o'clock the theater will offer as a special added attraction another of its fine amateur contests during which two big awards are made to the winners.

GRAND OFFERS 'HOLD THAT KISS'

It was love at first sight when Maureen O'Sullivan and Dennis O'Keefe meet in 'Hold That Kiss,' which starts Friday at Loew's Grand theater. But there were difficulties from the start. These two youngsters meet at a swanky wedding reception, and each thought the other was wealthy and fashionable. Actually, Miss O'Sullivan was in the house to deliver a final consentment of the trousseau, and O'Keefe was there from the travel agency, to deliver tickets for a round-the-world honeymoon.

Each thinks the other is a guest at the reception, and each begins playing up to the other. And the first thing they know, Maureen has allowed Dennis to think she's just as ultra-ultra as he believes, while he is trying to appear as socially prominent as she thinks he is. 'Hold That Kiss' is a brisk, high-spirited comedy about two very frank people who are so much in love with each other that they resort to deception because they're afraid they'll lose out if they admit the truth. Appearing with Miss O'Sullivan and O'Keefe are Mickey Rooney, in another of his unbeatable adolescent roles; Jesse Ralph, Frank Albertson and George Barbier—all expert comedians.

'CRIME SCHOOL' OPENS AT PARAMOUNT

'Crime School,' opening today at the Paramount theater, presents Humphrey Bogart, one of the better known villains of the screen, in the role of a deputy prison warden fighting politics to provide a 'decent' reformatory in which youthful offenders can learn right from wrong.

The youthful gang is made up by the 'Dead End' boys, who turn in another excellent performance. Gale Page, a blues singer, steps from the mike to appear as the heart interest of Humphrey Bogart in the show.

Bogart had this to say about his changed role: 'It was a new kind of thing for me to play, it's true. It demanded that I think like a crusader, instead of a criminal. It made me alter my facial expressions, even the tone of my voice. But there's nothing namby-pamby about Mark Braden, the commissioner. That's my role, you know. He's all man. And he's not a plaster saint, either, but has his human frailties and failings.'

Here's the story: Six boys from a slum district, accused of petty thievery, are sent to a reform school of the worst type, run by political grafters. In this 'Crime School,' they are fast becoming criminals, when a new commissioner of correction is appointed.

Although beset by many obstacles, he finally turns the school into a real 'reform' school and sets the boys on the right path. 'March of Time' is also on the program. It shows the workings of the medical profession.

JOE ROBINSON LEAVES ESTATE OF $35,521

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 9.—(P)—United States Senator Joe T. Robinson left an estate of $35,521.74, an inventory filed by his widow in probate court today showed.

The inventory listed real estate in Little Rock, Park Hill, Lonoke county and Fayetteville with a total value of $13,475; personal property with a value of $17,288.74, and 'books, papers and evidences of debt,' valued at $4,758. Senator Robinson, the Democratic majority leader, died last July. Except for a few individual bequests, the estate was left to Mrs. Robinson.

HARTSFIELD VETOES 4 SAFETY MEASURES CHARGING DEFECTS

Ordinances Declared 'Ridiculous' by Property Owners at Hearing.

Four safety ordinances passed by city council Monday were vetoed yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield because of "technical defects."

Hartsfield approved a general nuisance law which gives the city broad powers in abating anything adjudged to be a menace or a nuisance to the public.

His action came after a public hearing yesterday morning where property owners and safety experts asserted some phases of the four ordinances were "ridiculous" in that it would be impractical and impossible to enforce them.

The mayor emphasized that he was in sympathy with the principle of the ordinances and asserted he will sign them when their provisions are clarified and they are made technically sound.

Asks for Committee.

He asked council to appoint a committee to sit with representatives of the Southeastern Underwriters' Association and property owners in considering new similar laws. "No pressure on earth will keep me from approving these safety measures when they are perfected," the mayor declared.

The vetoed ordinances were:

- (1) An amendment to the building code to require fire-proofing elevator and dumb waiter shafts in joint-constructed buildings erected prior to January 1, 1924;
- (2) An amendment to the elevator ordinance to require conformity with the American Standards Association's safety code;
- (3) An amendment to the fire ordinance to require automatic alarm systems in all buildings except residences and to prohibit pressing clubs in basements; and
- (4) A building code amendment requiring automatic sprinkler and alarm systems in all non-fire-resistant buildings more than three stories high.

Owners Protest.

Property owners protested that one of the amendments would require them to install electric alarm bells even in private garages and woodhouses.

City Building Inspector C. J. Bowen and Councilman John T. Marler asserted they believed the measures should be studied and perfected before being passed by council.

Alderman I. Gloer Hailey, who was a leader in council's action in passing the ordinances Monday, admitted some phases of the laws should be clarified. He asserted councilmen acted in good faith in adopting them.

The elevator safety ordinance, concerning safety of elevator equipment, was recommended by the electric lights committee, while the other three were brought in by the special committee named to investigate conditions following the Terminal hotel fire.

Hartsfield pointed out that the nuisance law which he approved could force closing of a dangerous fire trap if necessary.

SUDETENS, CZECHS RESUME PARLEYS

Germans Talk With Premier Milan Hodza.

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, June 9.—(AP)—Direct negotiations between the Czechoslovak government and the clamorous Sudeten Germans (Nazi) party, halted two weeks ago amid heightening Berlin-Praha tension, were resumed today.

Three Sudeten-German members of parliament—Ernst Kundt, Franz Rosche and Gustav Peters—participated in a talk with Premier Milan Hodza.

When Hodza would receive Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German leader who last saw him May 24, was uncertain, but the fact that conversations with representatives of the German minority had been resumed was taken as a favorable sign.

Some apprehension was caused by renewal in Germany of vigorous anti-Czechoslovak Nazi press campaign just when the Spanish situation was beginning to require more British and French attention. Fears were expressed that Britain would be less inclined to take serious risks to support the republic if drawn deeper into the Spanish situation.

Top Neighborhood Theater To Be Opened

Here is the entrance of the new Rhodes Theater which formally opens tonight. Mayor Hartsfield and other officials will speak at the ceremonies. The theater is considered one of the finest neighborhood houses in the south.

Rhodes Theater Opening Tonight To Mark Completion of Center

Ceremonies, With Mayor Hartsfield as Principal Speaker, Will Dedicate $200,000 Community Trading Development, One of Finest in South.

Official opening of the Rhodes theater, Atlanta's newest movie house, at 6:30 o'clock tonight in Rhodes Center, will mark the completion of a $200,000 community trading development considered one of the finest in the south.

Situated near the junction of Spring and West Peachtree streets, Rhodes Center has practically every type of business necessary to a community. Thirteen of the new marble-front buildings are already occupied and seven others are to be opened in the near future.

Sponsored by the Woman's Chamber of Commerce, tonight's gala theater opening will dedicate the center.

The first performance will start at 6:45 o'clock with the showing of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Test Pilot," starring Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy.

The dedication ceremonies, with Mayor Hartsfield as principal speaker, will begin at 9 o'clock, followed by a full theater program.

The new theater is equipped with 728 cushioned seats. Air-conditioned and with the latest in motion picture sound equipment, the theater is one of the first in Atlanta to install a recent development in recording, known as the "push-pull" system. It also has the latest type of amplification with a two-way speaker system of cellular construction to insure quality and volume of sound.

Included in the air conditioning equipment is an air washer, assuring patrons of clean, washed air at all times. Spacious lounges are provided for men and women.

The front of the theater is constructed of white Georgia marble, while darker Tennessee marble has been used in the entrance lobby. The color scheme of the auditorium is white, rose and green.

Ample parking facilities are provided. There are two free parking lots which will accommodate approximately 150 cars.

The Rhodes theater is under the management of Lucas & Jenkins. C. H. Munger is local manager and Richard Dawn assistant manager.

HIGH COURT GETS EXEMPTION LAWS

Appeal Filed From School Bond Ruling.

Georgia's new homestead and personality tax exemption laws were taken before the state supreme court yesterday.

An appeal was filed by L. A. Campbell, Gordon county taxpayer, from a Cherokee circuit superior court decision holding the exemptions do not exempt property from taxation for the purpose of paying bonds issued to build a school house.

The Red Bud Consolidated school district in Gordon voted a $15,000 bond issue to construct a new building. Campbell filed an intervention objecting after Solicitor General J. H. Paschall filed notice to validate the bond issue.

Campbell contended the district's taxable value of property was insufficient to authorize a $15,000 issue, that it would violate the homestead and personality laws, and the issue would exceed seven per cent of the taxable property evaluation established by the constitution as the limit for floating a bond.

LIBERALS ELECTED IN SASKATCHEWAN

Social Credit Party's Bid Is Rejected.

REGINA, Saskatchewan, June 9.—(AP)—Premier W. J. Patterson's liberal government was returned to power today for another five years in a provincial election in which Saskatchewan overwhelmingly rejected the social credit party's initial bid for office.

The Liberals won 36 of the province's 52 seats while only two of the 39 candidates backed by William Aberhart, Alberta's social credit premier, were successful.

For the second successive term the conservatives failed to gain legislative representation.

Besides the liberals and social credit members, the other five winning were the co-operative commonwealth federation with 10 seats; and the union progressives and independents with one each. Elections will be held later to fill the remaining two seats.

KIWANIANS URGE CONVENTION SPACE

Declare Added Facilities Would Draw Meetings.

Additional convention space for Atlanta was urged yesterday by the Kiwanis Club through its board of directors.

The directors pointed out Atlanta could compete better with other cities for conventions if it had more adequate facilities.

Memory of Three Editors Honored By 50-Year Club of Press Group

SWAINSBORO, Ga., June 9.—The memory of the late Clark Howell Sr., editor of The Constitution; J. C. Williams, of Greensboro, and E. L. Rainey, of Dawson, was honored today as editors stood in silent tribute to the trio who had been members of the Fifty Year Club of the Georgia Press Association.

Ben H. Hardy, veteran editor of the Barnesville News-Gazette, had just been awarded a button, he having passed the half century mark as a member of the association. Hal M. Stanley, secretary, affixed the button to the lapel of Hardy's coat.

Jere N. Moore, president of the organization, asked the membership to stand in silent prayer for the three departed members of the club.

Other members of the Fifty Year Club are J. J. Thomson, editor of the Carroll County Times, ATLANTA, GA., JUNE 10, 1938.

REVAMPING THE I. C. C.

Considerable talk is heard among senators and congressmen with reference to again revising the much-amended act creating the Interstate Commerce Commission. Nothing is to be attempted now, because of lack of time before the summer holidays begin, but it is quite definite something will be attempted by way of "improving" the act at the next session of congress.

The most discussed plan has three salient features. It calls for the addition of two to four members to the commission; revising methods of procedure, ostensibly to expedite the business of the commission, and vesting authority in divisional tribunals, to be established to pass final judgment in certain cases, instead of waiting for a decision by the full commission as at present.

It cannot be doubted there is wisdom in looking into the workings of the commission from time to time. But, like the courts, it has built up methods of procedure out of a vast experience in such matters as come before it. The act has been amended, new rules of procedure adopted to meet new contingencies. Its jurisdiction is so widespread, its powers so far-reaching, that any attempt by political philosophers to simplify its methods should be weighed with particular care. The simple addition of new commissioners, for instance, does not necessarily mean more expeditious handling of its business any more than it would in the case of the supreme court of the United States.

There is much room for argument against vesting final judgment in divisional tribunals. It is proposed to assign certain commissioners to supervise districts, into which the country is to be divided, for rate-making and other purposes. But if these commissioners are to be reassignable or switched about at the will of a higher authority, nothing would stand in the way of defeating, or approving, proposed rates, rules or regulations, which did or did not suit the party in power.

Interstate commerce commissioners, like politicians and professors, have their own individual economic theories. Many have been appointed for this very reason. The grouping of a factional majority in a divisional tribunal at a crucial time could do much good, or bad, depending on the point of view, for a particular case of the country.

The I. C. C. is one quasi-judicial commission which is essential to the well-being of the nation. A reference to conditions existing before its creation proves its worth. A word of caution against revamping its methods of procedure and enlarging its powers to fit some particular economic theory, therefore, does not seem amiss.

PROOF OF STAMINA

It seems inconceivable, in this day of numerous villages, fine roads and fast travel, that two youngsters shipwrecked on the Georgia coast should spend three days trudging and swimming through marshes on their way back to civilization. It is even more unusual that present-day youth, generally leading a comparatively sheltered life, is able to discover the fortitude and the stamina which such a journey naturally requires. It demonstrates that were civilization, as we now know it, wiped out, man would survive through sheer indomitable will.

The youths were stranded on a coast avoided in large measure even by Indians and pioneer settlers. Yet, these two were able to summon courage from the deep well of the heart. They struck out bravely, knowing that death in many forms lurked in their path. The easy way would have been to remain on the island where their small boat was wrecked. Rescue would eventually have come, and sustenance of a sort, was there, and shelter. Their journey tosses the lie to those who say American youth is becoming soft.

Dictatorship, democracy, autocracy or anarchy—what does it matter what Europe calls it? It's government by nervous prostration.

Interest has waned, it seems, in the Spanish struggle. The public got up last month for the seventh-inning stretch and kept on walking.

When the Mikado's army is cut up by sleepy Chinese, it saves face by surrounding three more cabinet seats in Tokyo.

"If $1 bills to the amount of the national debt were laid side by side, they would not quite cover an area as large as New York city." The enterprise therefore was abandoned.

A tarpon leaped aboard a fisherman's launch in Florida, knocking the angler into the sea. If a prospect crowds a salesman nowadays, it's news.

"FLOWING WITH MILK—"

When the Israelite spies returned from their reconnaissance into the land of Canaan, they reported it was a land flowing with milk and honey. Ever since that phrase has been used to designate any section abounding in natural wealth.

Beginning today, June 10, the United States will observe National Milk Month. For the following 30 days every method available will be used to increase the consumption of milk in this country. Few will disagree with the statement that the extent of the success of this campaign will be measurable in increased physical well-being of the people.

Milk, it is conceded by all authorities, is the most perfect natural food provided by nature for humans. It contains in itself all those constituents necessary for the upbuilding of a strong body. Proteins, carbohydrates and fats are present in proportions that make them more easily assimilated by the human system, than in any other form.

The fat is present in milk in the form of a fine emulsion. So fine is this mixture that 6,000 of the fat globules in average milk, placed side by side, would measure but an inch in length.

Georgia is in a situation, in regard to milk supply, which should make this milk month especially valuable. For there is a surplus of milk production in the state. Increased consumption will find ample supplies. And the dairy farmers who produce the valued product will benefit by the natural stabilizing of their market which will result if the gap between consumption and production is taken up.

Pure, fresh milk, in sanitary condition, is supreme among foods that increase the health and strength of mankind. If National Milk Month brings about an increase in average consumption, by Americans, of the liquid food, it will have well served the nation.

JAMES A. FARLEY

No man among those falling into New Deal disfavor deserved his fate less than James A. Farley, now nominal chairman of the National Democratic Committee. He was one of the original Roosevelt-before-Chicago men in 1932. He was intense in his admiration for the President and his policies. He kept an accurate record of roll calls in congress solely for use in whipping dissenters into line.

He earned the reputation of being hard-boiled. But in reality he is easy-going and genial, a smoother-over, a conciliator. As organizer, his job was to build up and enlarge the Democratic organization, to entrench it, to perpetuate it. This called for compromise; an encouraging hand to those who had kicked over the party traces, to bring them back to the more genial work of pulling together and participating in the spoils.

He brought Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, back into the organization, although Hague had denounced Roosevelt at the Chicago convention. And no sooner had Huey Long been put out of the way by an assassin's bullet, than Farley was in Louisiana, conciliating the leaders of the machine, to bring them back into the fold. And he succeeded where all others had failed.

But when the time arrived for putting the New Deal stamp more indelibly upon the Democratic party, it became apparent the ranks must be purged of certain members who had balked at going all the way with the President. And General Jim was no purger. He could bring the rebellious back into the fold, but was not fitted by nature to kick them out. He had built up loyalties and friendships during his organizational work which made it impossible to enter into the cold-blooded business of purging old friends out of the party.

The exigencies of the situation called for uncompromising tactics. So the hard-boiled left-winger, Tom Corcoran, was assigned to the task and thus became more powerful within the party than the national chairman. For the first time, Jim Farley is, so to speak, on the outside looking in. The quietus had previously been put upon his long-nurtured ambition to become Governor of New York. Although given to understand he had the inside track to the nomination, he was forced to stand aside to make room for one more favorable to shifting party influences.

So it seems that the successful organizer, the deliverer of previous elections, has been forced into the ranks of those whose opinions are no longer welcomed in party councils.

What ever was done by the Irish hospitals along the line of a special ward for heart cases among American holders of sweeps tickets?

Editorial of the Day

THE BASIC FAULT

(From The Raleigh News and Observer)

"It is becoming increasingly clear," says Tom Girdler, the steel magnate, "that there can be no real and lasting improvement for industry until some way has been found to release the flow of capital into the productive channels of private enterprise." What Mr. Girdler says may be entirely true. But that does not mean that such men as Mr. Girdler are right in their insistence that the flow of capital into private enterprise is halted by governmental regulation and taxes. Indeed, the one prime propellant of private capital into private enterprise is the opportunity to make a profit in private enterprise. And the one great difficulty in that regard now is the failure of the economic order to provide that mass consumption which is essential to the successful (profitable) operation of industry in a mass production age.

When you are put in the position of having to introduce someone you are supposed—and really do—to know well, and can't for the life of you say their name; believe me, it is embarrassing. I've used the mumble routine dozens of

AMERICA SPEAKS

Public Sentiment Continues Sharply Opposed To Third Term; Survey Finds Even Democrats Against Roosevelt Re-election as New Biography Indicates His Desire To Retire.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The majority of American voters continue to be sharply resistant to the idea of a third term for President Roosevelt. What little third term sentiment there is has declined so steadily in the last year that, unless opinion shifts unexpectedly, the President could probably not get himself re-elected again.

These facts are indicated by a representative cross-section of voters in all parts of the country. They were asked: "Do you favor a third term for President Roosevelt?"

The vote was:
For Third term 30%
Against 70%
Although an overwhelming majority oppose a third term, the results are not to be confused with Roosevelt's present-day popularity. The latest public test, reported early this week by the Institute, showed that 54.4 per cent of the nation's voters are in sympathy with his policies today.

There has been much speculation recently as to whether the President really wants to run again. General Hugh S. Johnson has declared that he will seek re-election if he thinks he can win. But recently signs have been multiplying that the President earnestly desires to quit politics. Emil Ludwig's recently published biography quotes the President as saying:

"Of course, power is pleasurable for a few years. Then a man retires. I have a host of things to continue, the farm, Warm Springs, travels, articles to write—something of an introduction to the history of the times."

Other observers declare that the President's recent purchase of additional land at Hyde Park indicates his wish to retire.

Seven Surveys Made.
So far as the general public is concerned, the majority has at no time in the last two years favored Roosevelt's re-election in 1940. In seven Institute surveys during this period the high-tide of third term sentiment was in June, 1936, when 43 per cent of the voters said they would like to see the President continue in the White House after 1940. By July, 1937, however, third term sentiment had dropped to 37 per cent. Since then the decline has continued steadily to the 30 per cent mark recorded in today's survey.

Democrats Divided.
One of the biggest obstacles confronting a Roosevelt third term is opposition within the Democratic party itself. The survey finds that more than half of persons who voted for Roosevelt in 1936 are against a third term. Among Republicans the opposition, as might be expected, is virtually unanimous.

For Third term 30%
Against 70%
Democrats 43%
Republicans 97%

Moreover, the opposition among Democrats has increased. As recently as last January, 51 Democrats in every 100 favored a third term, as compared to only 46 in every 100 today.

Believers Still in Favor.
The only voters still in favor of a Roosevelt third term are those at the very bottom of the economic scale—persons on relief, who in previous Institute surveys have supported the President in all of his major policies, including the court enlargement plan. Among the remainder of the electorate, two main reasons are given for opposing a third term. The largest number say that "two terms are enough for any President."

The next most typical comment is: "A third term would upset an unwritten part of the constitution."

There was a little Pink that he could think, that he had some brains within his head; But when he met a Red who said "Blood should be shed!" He turned a sickly Greenish hue instead.

A Rift In Friendship.

This must be an embarrassing time of year in the canine world. For it is the time when long, matted hair disappears under the shears of the veterinary and there emerges, in place of the woolly or hairy animal of the winter, a close-clipped creature with souvenir tufts of hair on head, paws and tail tip.

Our own Bootsie went through the annual operation this week and she is still running in excited circles, realizing she is a different dog from a week ago.

But the saddest story of all comes from some friends who live a couple of blocks away. They have a large and beloved dog. He is, I believe, mostly sheepdog, with some traces of a German police dog. And perhaps another ancestral line or two.

Across the street from their home the people have a chow. She is a handsome creature, with thick red coat. The two dogs have been pals for a long time. Dozens of times a day they had been in the habit of publishing on one side of the street or the other, hunting well buried bones together, staging playful wrestling matches and all other sorts of canine camaraderie. Strictly platonic. Just good pals together.

But Now, There Is Sorrow.

Now, however, the old friendship is interrupted. The chow has been clipped. And, apparently, the police-shepherd and so forth—doesn't recognize her. She is either a stranger to him in her new guise or he regards her as a disappointing, flighty modernist. He positively will not have anything to do with her.

The chow is puzzled, that's all. When she starts to cross the street for a visit her old friend acts so strangely. He won't permit her to come more than half way. Then, with growls and snappings and really vicious doggy language, he rushes at her and drives her back to her own side of the pavement. It only we could understand canine language we'd probably learn something new in profanity from his growls. They certainly are not the kind of language a gentleman should use to address a lady.

It is tragic, but true. An old friendship has been broken, just because the lady—or her owners—used poor judgment on a trip to the beauty parlor.

There might be a lesson in this for humans.

Next time you are tempted to indulge in some experiment in hair or fingernails or eyebrow pluckings, girls, pause and think what will be the reaction with the best boy friend. It's an awesome thought, isn't it?

Schools Once and Now
NEW YORK—While visiting Milwaukee the other day, the mayor of that city showed me one of the new schools, which have been built in that city. I had never been inside. This one in Milwaukee was a marvel of glass and air and sunshine, and made my thoughts turn back involuntarily to the first school I visited in my youth, now 35 years ago.

Not a single detail of either the exterior or interior arrangement had faded from my memory. I still see the long rows of wooden shoes neatly ranged along the walls in the hallways and the sombre, gray walls in the classrooms where your eyes smarted from the clouds of acrid smoke that poured from the pot-bellied stoves on winter mornings when the wind blew from the northwest. On such days we boys were required to take turns in trying to induce the smoldering peat and coal fire to burst into flame by means of a pair of bellows. Only I do not remember anyone ever succeeding. And small wonder! For reasons of economy the soft coal was periodically doused with water before being put into the stoves.

Back of the principal's desk hung a rack for his collection of long clay pipes with lids of tobacco-stained filigree. Occasionally when we boys judged reprisals were in order for some collective punishment he had meted out, we smeared the mouthpieces of the master's pipes in secrecy with certain colorless, but unmentionable concoctions and then sat back to enjoy the grimaces of disgust he pulled upon placing one of the stems into his mouth.

It was as good a show as any to see that dour-faced, old, disciplinarian with the bulging eyes spit an angry stream of fire and threatening glances from left to right behind his enormously thick lenses, which made his eyes appear twice their normal size.

Pupils Versus Master

I suppose it shows poor pedagogical relationship, but we boys were in a constant state of undeclared war with the master. He was by no means our guide and counselor, at least we did not look upon him that way; he was our enemy and if he had broken his neck, I say it frankly, we would have rejoiced to end.

Only he did not break his neck, he it was who rapped your knuckles with a brass-edged ruler of ebony, inflicting real painful injuries. I remembered those beatings on the knuckles so well that one day when I had long graduated out of his establishment and one of my younger brothers showed me the blue welts on his fingers, I rushed back to the old school and administered a beating to the assistant master who had inflicted that punishment on my brother—and then there was the devil to pay.

In the end I was vindicated, and my rash act led to the abolition of corporal punishment in that particular school. In other words, I had become a reformer at the age of 17. I am no longer a reformer, although I still fight for my brothers, no matter who and where they are.

MONEY AND LIFE.

Dr. Whitney S. K. Yeaple, pastor of the Lake Avenue Baptist church, Rochester, N. Y., writes an interesting book on "Your Money and Your Life," published recently by the Judson Press. In a day when people are more and more realizing that money is so distinctly a measure of one's mastery or one's bondage, depending on man's attitude toward the things that abide as against the things that temporal, it is refreshing to come upon this book by one of the ablest ministers in the nation.

In his Foreword to the book Mr. Albert W. Bevan, president of Colgate-Rochester Divinity school, says: "Dr. Yeaple is here ministering to the deep things of the soul. In doing so he strikes the note which is everywhere evident in American life today, the realization that we must go far deeper than our methods, our machinery and our campaigns—down to the bedrock of life itself—down to the place where God deals with the soul and man deals with God."

The book is divided into three main sections, the first section being four chapters dealing with church finances and the first of these chapters bearing the title of the book. The second section is composed of five messages on prayer, selfishness, compassion, fellowship in suffering, and certitude regarding the gospel. The third section provides three special messages, one on the church, one on patriotism, and one on thankfulness.

Believing, as I do, that the stewardship of money is as much a part of Christian living as going to church and any of the other Christian graces, I am grateful to have the confirmation of so able a man as Dr. Yeaple in the conviction regarding the use to which we put the money we earn. I don't agree for a moment with the feeling sometimes expressed that a preacher must not mention money in the pulpit. I suspect that one reason why so many Christian people get so little out of their religion is because they have put so little in, and the fault for this sin of omission may often lie at the door of the preachers.

The Bible has a great deal to say about the use of money. God has given us the ability to make money for the furtherance of His Kingdom. Happy the man who is master of his money. Pitiable the man who is mastered by his money. "The love of money is the root of all evil, which, while some have coveted after, have erred in the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows." II Timothy 6:10.

The Hungry Country Boy Beats

The Rich Man's Son Who Is Dumb Or Isn't Trying

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

An Asiatic emperor with a motley army of 1,000,000 men made the fatal mistake of under-rating Alexander's 30,000 and thereby lost a battle and an empire.

Because we believe what we wish to believe, many a statesman and military leader has invited ruin by underestimating his enemy, as multitudes of humbler people have scorned and ridiculed great work because they disliked the man who did it.

It is a common human failing, usually expensive in one way or another, and most of us have had occasion to regret it. Many of us, both high and low, are making the same mistake now.

We believe the worst of Mussolini and Hitler, in part because we have read only the worst, yet these two, beginning with nothing but faith in themselves, have achieved enough to rank in history with the great rulers of all time.

Mussolini took charge of Italy when industry was dead, the people jobless and out of control, and the nation so impoverished and weak that it was ignored in the councils of the great.

He has turned vast swamp areas into good farm land; made the nation more nearly self-supporting than it ever was before; carried through enormous building plans; provided jobs, medical attention and hospital care for everybody; built and equipped an army and navy that enable him to dictate the policies of Europe; improved his nation in every way, and given his people a new pride and new sense of security.

Hitler took charge of Germany when the people were jobless, hungry, desperate, shamed and whipped in spirit. The nation was disarmed and helpless.

He violated hampering treaties; built a military machine that dominates Europe; provided jobs for everybody; built the world's finest highways across the nation; gave his people new ambition, hope and pride.

We hate and loathe their ideas and methods, for they destroy freedom, lie, rob and murder. But they think only of their own nation and disregard the rest of the world. They are growing at the expense of others; winning markets that once were ours; destroying our prestige and influence in South America; making their nations greater while we stand still.

Why? What is it we lack? How can Italy and Germany, with but a fraction of our wealth, improve and prosper while we stagnate in depression and spend our energies in factional strife?

Have we lost the good sense that made freedom work? Are we keeping the nation static with quick remedies? What are our explanations, the Fascists are beating us and there is no sane excuse for it.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

Before him, though, came Mary, his mother. At history-laden Fredericksburg, Va., last Saturday, we were privileged to take part in the Mary Washington College's first commencement exercises under that name. The exercises were staged in a beautiful open air theater on the campus. Across the valley, on an elevation which the college overlooks, George Washington's mother lies buried under a tall stone upon which is inscribed simply "Mary, the Mother of Washington." That the state college for women at Fredericksburg should have assumed a name so dear to the community and so full of meaning for the nation is appropriate indeed and comments upon the imagination and enterprise of the college's unceasingly contriving young president, Dr. Margaret L. Connelley.

Upon the excellencies in human being which make such a community and are made by such a college. It is 30 years now since this institution, a grant of legislative efforts of Virginia's C. O'Connor Goodrick, opened its doors. It is 11 times 30 years since John Smith sailed the Rappahannock and looked first upon the site. For the decades that belong to the college and the century which belong to the town, credit goes to the human beings who have stamped Mary Washington College and Fredericksburg with their deeds, their tastes, their dreams, their disciplines and their love. Every chapter in the history of the two is told and rightly, in terms of the men and women who have made it, but the individuals who lived the lives and joined the events remembered there in stone and shrub and moving story.

For 330 years, from the first white man's grant of it in 1608, through the years after 1727 when it was part of a colony, the years after 1776 when it was a part of a nation and the years after 1865 when it belonged to a reunited land, Fredericksburg has been the product of excellence in human being. For 30 years from its founding in 1908 through following decades in turmoil and altered all its ways, the institution that is now Mary Washington College has sought to produce excellence in human being. What could be more greatly appropriate, therefore, than that the college should now assume for itself the name of a human being and that it should be a name belonging profoundly to the community, the name of the mother from whom a nation's father took qualities of mind and heart that made him excellent.

Excellence in human being! Unless we can continue and increase it we may not be able to meet successfully the two facts of modern life—the fact of democracy

Fire Story Hits London—and What a Story!

'Chain Gangs, Herded by Warders, Used To Cut Through Hot Steel.'

Like gossip that passes over a backyard fence, the story of Atlanta's disastrous Terminal hotel fire grew as it traveled the telegraph and cable wires to foreign lands.

The London Daily Express, in a special story from their New York correspondent, May 17, described Georgia chain gangs cutting through hot twisted steel ruins in the hotel hull searching for bodies of the missing.

It told of the chain gangs being herded by warders as they worked. The London paper declared "rescue operations seemed confused and police and firemen were handicapped by a crowd of 4,000 sightseers who trampled on the hoses and surrounded the engines and waterpumps."

Atlanta Receives Paper.

A copy of the London paper's story was received here yesterday by Miss Willise Carter, of 1223 Emory drive, N. E., an employee of the Atlanta Boy Scout headquarters. It was sent by her father, Willis Carter, who for the past four years has operated a business in London.

Here is the London story:

"New York, Monday.—Chain gangs from Georgia's jails, shepherded by warders, helped firemen today to cut through the hot, twisted steel ruins of Atlanta's Terminal hotel following a fire in which at least 30 lives were lost. "Firemen and convicts worked side by side using acetylene torches and hatchets in the search for victims.

"The police are convinced that the remains of many victims will never be recovered. "This evening they announced that among those dead were a family of five: Mrs. Lewis Overstreet, her 12-year-old daughter Jacqueline, her seven-year-old twins Jimmy and John, and her mother, Mrs. Bacon.

"The fire began early today in the hotel kitchens on the ground floor, and spread rapidly through the five-story, 125-room building. "Firemen handicapped."

"No one knew how many people were in the hotel until the night clerk, Frederick Berry, as nurses bandaged his burned face, said that there were 60 guests registered.

"Berry telephoned the alarm as flames ran around the switchboard. The firemen had no chance of saving the building, and the fall of the roof destroyed all chances of rescuing people who were not on the lower floors.

"Many of the victims had sealed themselves in their rooms. In one room firemen found four bodies: a woman seated on a chair, a little girl kneeling by the bed in an attitude of prayer, a man and another child slumped across the bed.

"Few of the dead have been identified, for the fire destroyed all the hotel records, reduced the guests' baggage to ashes.

"Rescue operations seemed confused, and police and firemen were handicapped by a crowd of 4,000 sightseers who trampled on the hoses and surrounded the engines and water pumps."

"These English papers really like to talk about the Georgia chain gangs," Miss Willise Carter, of 1223 Emory drive, N. E., said yesterday as she examined a clipping from the London, England, Daily Express sent by her father, Willis Carter, now in business there. The story told how "chain gangs from Georgia's jails, shepherded by warders, helped cut through hot, twisted steel ruins of the Terminal hotel" searching for bodies of victims.

TALMADGE NAMES SON AS MANAGER

Heard George Directs Senator's Race; Candidates Await Early July.

By the Associated Press. Senatorial and gubernatorial campaigns simmered yesterday as candidates waited for early July, when farmers have "laid by" their crops, to open campaign headquarters.

Former Governor Eugene Talmadge, who has been conducting his campaign for the senate from his Atlanta law offices, today named his 25-year-old son, Herman, as his manager.

The younger Talmadge has practiced law here since his graduation from the University of Georgia two years ago. He campaigned for his father in the 1936 race against Senator Russell.

Another father-son team is also in the race. Senator Walter F. George's re-election campaign will be managed by his son, Heard George.

In the Governor's race, Hugh Howell waited for July to open public headquarters. Former Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder, of Hazlehurst, has been directing campaign literature for Howell. Linder today said there was no nominal campaign manager.

Linder, former supporter of Talmadge, succeeded G. C. Adams as agriculture commissioner in 1935. He was defeated for re-election.

Governor E. D. Rivers planned to open headquarters in an Atlanta hotel early in July. He has announced no choice for a manager of his campaign for re-election. He said recently he would have "as many as he had in his last campaign—117."

District Attorney Lawrence Camp also is delaying opening of organized campaign offices for his senate race. He said today he would name a manager in about two weeks.

William G. McRae, the other senate candidate, had not formally selected a manager. He was conducting his race from his Atlanta law office.

Roosevelt Will Break Honeymoon for Friend

NAHANT, Mass., June 9.—(AP) Two days after he weds Anne Lindsay Clark, John Roosevelt, the President's youngest son, will usher at the wedding of a Harvard classmate, Marshall Field Jr., of New York.

Field's marriage to Joanne Bass, daughter of former Governor R. P. Bass, of New Hampshire, and Mrs. Bass, is to take place at East Walpole, Mass., on June 20. Young Roosevelt said today he would "usher for Marshall."

Roosevelt and his fiancée spent part of this morning filling out their application for their wedding license, after which they paid $2 to Clerk Leon M. Delano at town hall.

Judge Refuses To Probate Will Of Mrs. Crutchfield at LaFayette

Witness Testifies She Was Not in Room When Deceased Signed Document Leaving $40,000 to $50,000 Estate to Nephew by Marriage.

LAFAYETTE, Ga., June 9.—Judge J. C. Keown refused to probate the will of Mrs. Mary B. Crutchfield, widow of the late Frank Crutchfield, of this county, in a hearing in ordinary's court this week, when one of the witnesses to the will, Mrs. Ida Rutledge, testified she was not in the room when Mrs. Crutchfield signed the document.

The will was made May 28, 1937, about two weeks before the death of Mrs. Crutchfield, and left the estate, valued at between $40,000 and $50,000, to William Crutchfield, of Chattanooga, a nephew by marriage.

George and E. A. McCallie, brothers of Mrs. Crutchfield, attacked the validity of the will, contending their sister was not of sound and disposing mind when the will was executed, and that it was not properly witnessed.

The case will be transferred to superior court, and if the higher court holds the will invalid the estate will revert to the brothers and sisters of Mrs. Crutchfield.

CONFEREES AGREE TO F. D. R. REQUEST FOR WPA INCREASE

Senate Figure Retained But Committee Warns of Other Differences.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(UP) House and senate conferees on the recovery bill today agreed to President Roosevelt's request that the senate's works relief appropriation of $1,425,000,000 be retained but said that it would take a "long time" to reconcile other differences in the measure.

Agreement on the item was reached shortly before the conferees adjourned their first day's session. The house originally voted $1,250,000,000 for the Works Progress Administration, and the senate raised the sum $175,000,000 to provide for the first eight months of fiscal 1939 instead of seven months as provided by the lower chamber.

In a letter to House Speaker Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, the President reluctantly admitted economic conditions had grown much worse than was expected when he first submitted his relief request to congress, and asked that the senate's increase of the relief appropriations be retained.

The conferees' warning that reconciliation of other differences would take more time, together with a determined drive by "cheap" money advocates in the house for a vote on inflationary legislation, forced congress to throw Saturday adjournment plans out the window.

Still remaining for the recovery conferees to iron out is the senate amendment authorizing a $212,000,000 appropriation for farm parity payments; the "Woodrum amendment" which requires WPA to allocate its funds so as to assure their lasting eight months, which was stricken out by the senate; the Byrnes amendment which provides that any minimum wage law enacted apply to relief wages if it is higher than the prevailing rate.

RUSSELL "REGRETS" STAND

BY CLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, June 9.—Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia, today expressed "deep regret" that house conferees were opposing his amendment to the three and one-half-billion-dollar relief bill, the amendment to provide $212,000,000 for price adjustment payments toward parity to growers of cotton, wheat, corn and other basic commodities.

He said that, in his opinion, cotton farmers especially would face a desperate situation this fall unless something was done to relieve their ever-falling market.

It was learned that all house conferees except Representative Clarence Cannon, of Missouri, were fighting acceptance of the Russell amendment and that they would not agree to a conference report unless the $212,000,000 item was eliminated.

"The crop control bill," Senator Russell declared, "will reduce production, but the enormous carry-over of cotton will tend to depress the market far below the parity price, which is now approximately 16 cents a pound. The $100,000,000 which my amendment provides for cotton farmers, and to which house conferees have announced determined opposition, will help the situation some, but it is not nearly enough to bring the income of the farmers up to the cost of production. Cotton is now selling for about one-half of parity."

The amendment which Senator Russell had approved to the agricultural appropriation bill for the next fiscal year, increased the soil conservation fund to $500,000,000, and it has been agreed to in conference between the two houses. But without some form of price adjustment or parity payments such as provided in his amendment to the relief bill, he feels that there will be a real relief situation on the hands of the government this fall, particularly in the cotton belt and wheat regions. "Thousands of farm families," he declared, "are bound to be in dire need. Therefore, I shall insist that the house conferees take my relief amendment back to the lower chamber for a vote, so that the responsibility for the grave situation which I anticipate may be clearly and definitely fixed."

Kiddies Cry "Come Out From Behind Bush"

Man Mountain Dean, the bearded grappler who wants to wrestle with the law as a Gwinnett county representative in the legislature, is having a hard time of it as a politician. The beard that brought him fame on the mat scares the babies he's supposed to kiss to get elected. Here is the Man Mountain while in Decatur recently, with a lustily yelling infant who probably thinks the beard is underbrush. Dean, who has made many a tough baby call calf rope in the squared ring, can't get to first base with this one in the political ring.

'No Broad Jump,' Man Mountain Dean Is Warned

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., June 9. Man Mountain Dean was disqualified in a wrestling match in Los Angeles last night for using a "running broad jump." Officials of the county Democratic executive committee said he'd be disqualified as a candidate for the legislature if he tried to "broad jump" his two opponents.

A Los Angeles referee threw Dean out of the ring two minutes after he started grappling with Ivan Rasputin last night. Dispatches from California labelled Dean "a movie doctor, politician and wrestler."

Dean "broad-jumped" his 320 pounds over Rasputin and the referee called the whole thing off. The broad jump is illegal.

"Dean will have to stick to straight old-fashioned politics just like the wrestling racket is forcing him to stick by the rules," a Democratic official said here today.

Marvin Allison and M. E. Tapp, who are fighting a three-cornered race with Dean for Gwinnett county's two seats in the assembly, said they "do not choose to be broad-jumped."

FRATERNAL GROUPS TO MEET TUESDAY

Degree of Pocahontas, Red Men, Plan Session.

Georgia councils of the Degree of Pocahontas and the Improved Order of Red Men will open a two-day meeting Tuesday at the Red Men's Wigwam, 160 Central avenue, S. W., it was announced yesterday.

New officers will be elected and a reorganization plan will be discussed by delegates. Arthur Johnson and Mrs. Inez Haynie, both of Atlanta, have been nominated to head the two organizations during the coming year. The officers will be installed by Judge Thomas H. DALLAS 'COPPER MINE' AREA MAY BE SOLD

DALLAS, Ga., June 9.—Negotiations are under way for the sale of 427 acres of land including and adjoining the property known as the "Copper Mine," about four miles from Dallas.

C. U. Rechsteiner is representing a New York firm, and C. B. McGarrity, a local lawyer, is investigating titles. The deal probably will be consummated within the next 30 days.

It is understood the purchasing firm will erect a plant at an estimated cost of $300,000, and will employ about 200 men. Operations will consist of mining for copper, silver and gold and other by-products.

Watson pleaded guilty in March to four counts charging him with running a truck line between Atlanta and Louisville, Ky., without first obtaining a certificate of convenience and necessity from the Interstate Commerce Commission and without publishing a tariff schedule.

Judge Underwood fined him $100 on the first count and placed him on probation for one year on the three remaining counts. As one of the conditions of his probationary sentence, Watson must pay $10 a month on his fine for the next ten months.

ATLANTANS CHOSEN FOR RESERVE CORPS

10 University of Georgia Graduates Appointed Second Lieutenants.

Appointment of 10 Atlanta graduates of the University of Georgia as second lieutenants in the army's reserve corps was announced yesterday at fourth corps area headquarters.

Seven of the group were commissioned in the cavalry and three in the infantry reserves.

Cavalry appointments were: Junius M. Adair, of 1326 North avenue; William A. Crossland Jr., of 1280 West Peachtree; John A. Jenkins, of 247 Fourteenth street; Albert B. Jones, of 56 Seventeenth street; Edward H. Keiley, of 567 Moreland avenue, N. E.; Wadsworth McGinty, of 25 Palisades road, and Byron H. Mathews Jr., of 946 Virginia avenue.

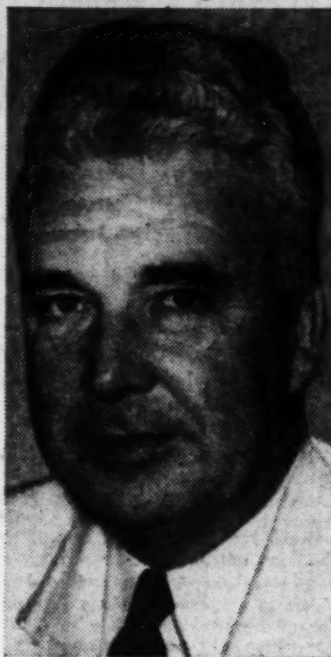

Infantry appointments were: John K. Ezell Jr., of 400 Altoona place; Willis O. Jackson, of 683 Juniper street, and Charles H. Jenkins, of 247 Fourteenth street. Other appointments announced included William R. Kendrick, of 724 Boulevard, N. E., a graduate of The Citadel, as second lieutenant in the coast artillery reserve.

It also was announced that John Charles Carter, of 891 Penn avenue, has been promoted from the rank of major in the infantry reserve to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

NON-UNION WORKMEN SLUGGED IN AUGUSTA

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 9.—(AP)—Four non-union workmen were beaten here today in an attack by unidentified men who drove up in two automobiles to a construction project in the heart of the business district.

Police, called to the scene, found the attackers gone and the work-

D. E. LAVIN NAMED SHELL MANAGER

Will Be in Charge of Georgia and Florida Division.

Appointment of Dan E. Lavin as manager of the Shell Petroleum Corporation's southeastern division comprising the states of Georgia and Florida was announced here yesterday.

A veteran of more than 20 years' service with the company, Mr. Lavin was assistant general sales manager in charge of the south and central west states before being appointed to his present position. He succeeds E. R. Renfro, who has been transferred to New Orleans.

Starting with Shell in 1917, he served as manager of the Missouri division for six years and later organized the Michigan division, where he also served as manager. From there he was transferred to St. Louis, where he was manager of the sales distribution department and then assistant general sales manager. As a result of his latest promotion he will divide his time between Atlanta and Jacksonville.

men suffering from abrasions and lacerations.

Police said they were informed the attack leaders were from Atlanta and had the aid of local men.

The workmen told police they were attacked with wrenches and sticks and that the attackers immediately drove away.

Burton, George Hillyer, Robert McCord, Charles Rice, Newdigate Owensby, Frank Dean, Lee Lewman, J. D. Cromer, W. M. Camp, Frank Ellis, R. G. McAlley and Bernard Woolf.

Assisting in entertaining will be officers of the Service Group, including Mesdames Gordon Kiser, president; Frank Inman, first vice president; W. P. Hill, second vice president; Fanny D. Williams, corresponding secretary; Fred Paxton, treasurer.

Also assisting will be officers of the Omnibus. Mesdames Francis Abreu, chairman; Charles Conklin, co-chairman; Herbert Alden, secretary and treasurer; Charles Sciple, manager.

Brides, Brides-Elect Feted in Marietta.

MARIETTA, Ga., June 9.—Miss Peggy Carmichael will entertain Sunday at "open house" in honor of Mrs. Jimmy Carmichael, who before her recent marriage was Miss Frances McDonald, of Bolton.

Mrs. E. D. Williams will entertain at a series of luncheons complimenting Mrs. Carmichael, the first being on June 17 at her home on Hillside avenue and the second on June 23.

Mesdames Roy Collins and Harold Hamby will be hosts at a bridge-luncheon Saturday at their home on McDonald street, honoring Miss Nina Lewis Collins, bride-elect. The guests will be Mrs. Robert Durham, of Hartsville, S. C.; Mrs. Claude Durham, of Acworth; Mrs. Roy Shore, of Birmingham; Mesdames Horace Field, R. A. Fine, Collins Durham, of Atlanta; Charles Pigue, Harvey Carpenter, M. H. Coleman, William Hall, George Hagood Jr., John Collins and Misses Ernestine Collins, Acworth; Jane Hawkins, Eva Miller and Miss Collins, the honoree.

Miss Clara Smith entertains Saturday at bridge complimenting Miss Suzanne Howell, bride-elect.

Miss Laura Jean Dickson was married Sunday at the First Methodist church at Elizabeth to Howard Hicks, of Atlanta; Rev. J. A. Quarles, pastor, reading the marriage service. Miss Irene Fawcett was maid of honor and Billy Hicks, brother of the groom, was best man. The bride wore an ensemble of powder blue with white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds and valley lilies. Following the ceremony the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dixon, entertained at a dinner at their country home. The groom and his bride are residing in Atlanta.

Mrs. James Perry Dykes, of Cochran, has issued announcements of the marriage of her daughter, Nellie, to Guy Roberts, of Marietta, on April 14, in Mobile, Ala., at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. R. B. Finney, with Rev. E. L. Dickerson officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts are visiting in Florida and on their return will reside in Marietta.

Mrs. Freddy Clarke will entertain Saturday at a kitchen shower honoring Miss Nina Lewis Collins, bride-elect.

Miss Margaret Coleman is spending this week at Claremont Springs in Alabama, and will go from there to spend a month with Mrs. W. H. McDonald at Raglan, Alabama.

Mrs. E. B. Freyer, of Savannah, who has been the guest of Mrs. D. C. Cole, is visiting her son, Dr. Egbert Freyer, in Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Robert Suhr and son, "Buster" Holand, and Mrs. Stanton Read and son, Stanton, have returned from Florida.

Get Together Day.

"Get Together Day" will be observed at the Atlanta Woman's Club on Monday when members will enjoy a unique tree luncheon at 12:30 o'clock. This luncheon will be served at small tables under the famous oak tree in the side yard, which is one of the most beautiful and majestic in the state and recently has been valued by a tree expert at $10,000 dollars. Mrs. Alva G. Maxwell, president, invites all members to be present and to make reservations by calling the club before Saturday. A group of poems on "Trees" will be read by Mrs. Charles Schilling. The executive board meets at 11 o'clock, preceding the luncheon, in the palm room with Mrs. Fredric C. Rice, chairman, presiding. New members of the executive committee, who will be introduced, will announce their plans for the coming year. The house committee meets at 10 o'clock with Mrs. C. A. Rhodes, chairman, presiding.

Boulevard Club To Sponsor Program.

Mrs. J. C. Malone and J. Lee Harne Jr. will speak on the recreational program to be given by the Boulevard Park Woman's Club at 2:30 o'clock June 14. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Samuel Green, 737 Elkmont drive, N. E., and will be the first of the new club year at which Mrs. W. L. Thomasson will preside.

Mrs. Malone, widely known in Atlanta for her work in behalf of the preschool child and as a leader in Camp Fire Girl activities and P-T-A. work, will speak on "Recreation and the Right Use of Leisure."

Mr. Harne is WPA area recreation director in charge of Fulton and DeKalb counties.

The Boulevard Park Woman's Club has endorsed the movement to secure for Atlanta a broader public recreational program under a specially trained and qualified director and has pledged its support to this end.

Members of the club are urged to attend this meeting and residents of the community interested in this subject and other club projects are invited. The special program will follow the business session.

Other features of the program will be musical numbers presented by members of the Junior Woman's Club and the reading of original verse by Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe.

A social hour will follow, the hostess being assisted in entertaining by Mesdames W. Milo Price, R. G. Game, J. W. Litton and C. V. Weaver.

Chiseler in Marriage Wonders at Her Failure to Revive Old Love

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Mrs. Scheider is certain today that she has a great many friends she did not know existed. There are a good many friends who have sent her flowers and messages of every kind. In addition, there are a number of very kind notes from people who thank her for things which she has done for them in the past and tell her how sorry they are she is ill.

When her mail was brought in this morning, I took it from the nurse with a great deal of satisfaction, for I was now the one who opened the mail and decided what she should read, instead of the reverse procedure. Then I asked Mrs. Scheider if she knew one or two of the people who had written. She shook her head, looked up at the nurse rather apprehensively, and said: "If everybody I have written to in the last six years is going to write me now, no one is ever going to have time to acknowledge the letters."

I am very glad I did not read "The Citadel" until this morning. Comparatively few books will hold your attention when you are very anxious, but "The Citadel" meets that requirement and it saw me through some very trying hours. I haven't quite finished it, but I think it is a most interesting book.

I am also grateful for "The Connecticut Nutmeg." This new magazine, which I read with the greatest interest, has so many contributions of note on a variety of subjects, that I think everybody can find something in it to give them a few moments of entertainment. In the last issue, Elizabeth Hawes gave me much joy. She suggested that those of us who had to attend our sons' weddings in the month of June should just pick out some nice, comfortable garment which will stand rain or sun, and not try to decide on something new.

That sounds eminently sensible. But oh, Miss Hawes, just try it if you have a family, or even worse, if you have to answer the questions of the press on what you are going to wear! All winter long I try to make out of five evening dresses sound like 15. You wear the same dress, but it must be black velvet with lace on one occasion—and the lace must always be priceless—and black velvet with sequins on another, or black velvet with orchids on a third. The editors wouldn't like it if a truthful reporter wrote: "The same black velvet dress was worn on two previous occasions."

TODAY'S CHARM TIP

"Taking offense" may grow into such a habit that others avoid you, in an effort to escape similar criticism for real or fancied slights.

Bridge Lite

AN AFTERNOON DRESS

WITH SLIMMING LINES. Thanks to the shirring on the shoulders and the full, short sleeves, this dress has a charming softness and flatter about it that will make it look and feel cool even on the most torrid days. At the same time, it is so slenderizing in silhouette that women up to size 46 can wear it beautifully. The lifted pointed waistline flattens the midriff. The plain neckline and the gentle flare of the skirt, smooth-fitted about the hips, give the long slimming lines so becoming to larger figures.

This will be your favorite and most flattering fashion for afternoons of bridge or for club meetings, and it's not too formal for street wear. Make it up in some sheer fabric—voile, chiffon, georgette or dotted Swiss.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1517-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 1-1/3 yards of 39-inch material. A detailed sew chart is included.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondents invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield in care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am writing for a friend, asking your advice, and this is her story. Ten years ago she married a man she deeply loved. Shortly afterward he began to mistreat her and neglect the little things that every wife craves from her husband and she was hurt; but she went right on trying to make him happy. Finally she decided that he had killed her love and there was no use for her to carry on, so she left him. A year or so before the separation, she was thrown with a man who was very careful about these little things and she learned to love him. Now they see each other about once a month and write once a week. But there can be nothing more for he has relatives to support and marriage is out of the question for him.

After my friend left her husband he didn't come near her and if they chanced to meet he merely spoke to her. Then all of a sudden he began to beg her to come back to him, going so far as to make threats as to what he would do if she refused. She agreed, and though he has treated her well enough, she can't revive her dead love. She isn't happy and thinks it stupid to remain his wife. She knows this other man is not in the future picture as far as marriage is concerned. Please express your views of the case.

A FRIEND.

Answer: My views won't comfort your friend nor comfort her either, because it seems to me she's been twice a chiseler. The mere fact that her husband neglected to pay her the delicate attentions she craved surely didn't give her the right to seek them outside. Yet she confesses she did. And before she made up her mind to quit his fireside she had already put out other irons in another's fire—reason enough for her husband to bid her good-bye without a protest.

On the second marital venture with her husband she confesses to clandestine meetings and confidential correspondence with the other man which is what's commonly known as playing both ends against the middle. Naturally she can't revive her old feeling for a once loved husband while she is engaged with an extra-mural episode of romantic natures.

In all kindness you should remind your friend that delicate attentions and words of love spoken by a man who fails to back them up with words about marriage are to a woman exactly what the spider's net is to the fly—a slick trap.

Now isn't a woman foolish (putting it charitably) to eat a man's bread and drink his tea, warm herself by his hearth and pretend to be a sincere companion in it all, while she's merely using him as a blind and his home as a place from which to deploy? She's foolish and stupid and not quite a straight shooter.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Bubbling Essence of Bouquet Fragrance Lends Zest and Interest to Bath

By LILLIAN MAE.

With the days and nights growing warmer and warmer, no one will dispute the fact that the bathtub is about the most comfortable place in the house. But even so, as delightful as a bath is, it can be made even more so by use of the proper accessories.

I say accessories but after using some of the newer ones, you'll probably class them as necessities rather than accessories. One of these is a new bubbling bath essence, which releases itself into millions of iridescent bubbles on top of your bath water.

Just run a bit of water into your tub, add about two tablespoonfuls of the essence, then let the water run at high speed. The greater the speed, the more bubbles there will be. And the more bubbles there are, the more eager you will be to jump into the tub, and the longer you will want to linger, while the water becomes soft and your skin smooth and silky.

But that's not all. There will be all about you the fragrance of a new spring bouquet—such that you'll think of a lovely flower garden after a light spring rain. The eight-ounce bottle is flat—and easy to pack—dark blue in color with a silver label studded with myriad-colored dots to simulate the iridescent bubbles held within.

Now aren't you just rarin' to try this new bubbly preparation in a cooling tub? Well, phone me at the office of The Constitution for its name and the Atlanta stores at which it may be purchased, and then see for yourself just how grand you'll feel after such a bath. If you do not live in Atlanta, write me, and be sure to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

BRITTLINESS OF HAIR AND NAIL'S SIGN OF DIET DEFICIENCY.

The misinformation has been about protein and its light calcium (lime) is the important nutritional factor in the health of the fingernails. In tracking down the scientific data on the subject, we learn that protein is the important element, and that, furthermore, what keeps your nails in the pink of condition is the same thing that gives you healthy hair.

In experiments by Dr. Richard J. Block, reported in the Yale Journal of Biology and Medicine, protein was found to be the constitutive element of both hair and nails. The purpose of Dr. Block's experiments was to determine the similarity and the differences between nails and hair. Both are modified skin rather than bone and there is no evidence that calcium has anything to do with their construction.

These experiments, conducted purely in the interests of science, furnish us with some beauty information we have been wanting for a long time. Now we know what to eat and the other foods the health of hair and nails. The foods needed are the complete proteins: meat, milk, eggs, fish, fowl, cheese and nuts. Long before your general health suffers from your hair and nails will be affected by a diet deficient in protein.

The less essential organs are always the first to show the results of a nutritionally poor diet. The specific protein element utilized for hair and nails is the amino acid methionine, which appears as cystine. The condition of the hair and nails is determined by their cystine content, and the lower the content the poorer their quality. This element is affected adversely by alkali and by warmth. When the hands are dipped too frequently into strong soap the hair and nails become brittle. For the same reason, washing the hair with strong soap causes it to split. Alkali is the destructive agent that breaks down the cystine. The nails of the toes, where the cystine may be destroyed by the warmth of the shoes, contained less cystine than the fingernails and are usually very brittle and thin. There may be something to the style of open-toed sandals!

You will be glad to know that the acetone used in nail removers apparently has no effect on the cystine of the nails. Neither methionine nor cystine mean much to the average person. What concerns us is that the complete protein foods contain these elements and are necessary to the healthy condition of nails and hair. If your nails and hair are in poor condition it may be that your diet is inadequate in complete protein. Regardless of whether you are dieting to gain, to reduce, or to stay at normal weight, at least one-tenth of your normal calorie allowance must be furnished daily by the complete proteins. To supply this your menu should contain one to two eggs, a liberal serving of meat, fish, fowl, or a meat substitute, and one to two glasses of milk.

Scientists day by day accomplish more wonders. Now if someone will only come forth with the information on what to eat to make a permanent wave permanent, we'll be all set!

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

DON'T MAKE ME LAUGH.

Mr. Blank reports he has benefited much from belly breathing for inability to get to sleep at night. It seems to bring relief to the sensation of gas or fullness and when that goes sleep soon follows. He now finds belly breathing quicker and more effective than getting up for a dose of soda.

Well, even getting up for a dose of chalk—five or ten grains of the calcium carbonate—would be better than taking soda, for the relief of "gas" or "acidity" or "sour stomach" or "heartburn."

But the main purpose of Mr. Blank's letter is to give his experiences with cracked lip.

He is 44 years old and for years has suffered with cracked lip through most of the winter, and sometimes also in summer from too much exposure to sun.

A long time ago he read in this column the suggestion to apply flexible collodion to the cracked lip. He distinctly recalls we said, "He distinctly recalls we said, 'flexible, and the defense concedes that is correct. That summer in the terrific heat our correspondent had a badly cracked lip. The druggist had only plain collodion, which Mr. Blank used, and with the most satisfactory result. The following winter he had to resort to collodion again, but it required only two applications to get the crack healed this time."

Another winter the old trouble returned, and this time the druggist had flexible collodion. Mr. Blank used it, but found it difficult to keep on the lip and obtained no relief from it. He then toured a string of drugstores until at last he found one that had the old plain collodion, which evidently when applied to the crack, sealed it over, and soon brought about healing.

This past winter the lip has not cracked at all, though once or twice he had what seemed to be the beginning of a herpetic blister or "cold sore" and immediately applied a protective coating of the plain collodion, which evidently prevented development of the trouble.

The essential purpose of the collodion treatment of herpes of the lip or cracked lip is to splint the lip, prevent constant movement of the edges, keep it as nearly as possible at rest, protect it. That being so, plain collodion is preferable for the purpose. Flexible collodion is the same as plain collodion except that some oil is added. Plain collodion is pyroxilin (soluble gun cotton) dissolved in alcohol and ether. Flexible collodion is plain collodion containing also some camphor and some castor oil.

In applying plain collodion to a split or cracked lip it is necessary that the lip be perfectly free from any oil or salve which may have been applied, perfectly dry, and the edges of the fissure or crack should be carefully held together between thumb and forefinger while the collodion is drying. As soon as the first dressing comes loose, remove it and apply a fresh one.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Hernia.

"May I have your instructions for the cure of hernia by exercise? Can a man 79 years of age be cured by your method? The hernia has existed about six years. (E. G.)"

Answer:—Yes, if you will provide a stamped envelope bearing your address. I doubt whether hernia in a man aged 79 can be cured.

Paint for Blemishes.

Do you know of any cream or powder that will conceal birth marks or liver spots? (E. D.)

Answer:—Such marks, like white spots, if level with skin, may be concealed with the following paint. Mix 1-2 ounces of zinc oxide powder with 1-2 ounces of calamine powder, two teaspoonfuls of glycerine, in a pint of water. Then drop in, drop by drop, until a tint to match the normal skin is obtained, ichthyol—usually not over 1-4 ounce of ichthyol is required. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

'WE LEARNED A NEW STEP TODAY'

Don and Lola—who used to be such wash-outs on the dance floor—now do the tango with an easy, flowing grace.

They're a hit in this picturesque dance—so popular in summer for its slow, smooth tempo. Every day they master another step.

How did this expert pair get out of the dud class? By practicing at home with simple diagrams which showed how to place their feet and keep time.

See how quickly you can master even the tricky tango cross-step by following the diagram in our illustration.

To do the girl's part: 1—step to right with right foot. 2—step left foot over right, heel leading. AND—step to right with right foot. 3—close with left.

The man does the same steps, starting with left foot. But to avoid bumping knees he begins the cross step a little before the girl, too first instead of heel.

Does the tango rhythm baffle you? The secret is to pause after count 3. To tango in the latest style, avoid movement above the hips, step with a smooth, catlike tread.

In our 40-page booklet, SOCIAL DANCING SELF-TAUGHT, are diagrams and instructions for all the latest dance steps—fox-trot, rumba, waltz, tango, shag. Also trucken', Suzy-Q. How to lead and follow.

PLEASANT HOMES

By ELIZABETH M'RAE BOTKIN

PLAY UP TO THE TAPE RUG.

I've "upped" my hair and bought a swishy new dress.

Anita S. writes: "I've just had my hair 'upped,' and my wardrobe replenished and I feel ten years younger. So I'm all enthusiastic to do the house over in style too. But it looks hopeless."

"Mohair upholstery in the first place—plain tan wall paper, a taupe rug, ecru tie-back curtains. The furniture is nondescript. You don't have to tell me how drab that all is, I know. But what can I do? We can repaper the walls, slip-cover the furniture and get new curtains. But the rug will have to stay. Will you suggest wall paper, material for slip covers and curtains, also lamps and accessories?"

A Chance to Breathe.

"You see we've been completely sunk in family and depression the last ten years. Now the children are suddenly big enough to give us a chance to breathe. And the family finances, though not skyrocketing, are definitely better than they've been. Therefore we've decided to fix up ourselves and the house."

The Answer.

Which is very patriotic, we'd say, since we've told it's our duty to spend, providing we have anything to spend, that is. As for that living room, there's lots you can do. First, we'd say to make the taupe rug look as if it were selected for the room. So, why not light gray wallpaper with white blossoms in it. Then curtains of yellow nylon. The sofa we'd slip-cover in turquoise rep. Two chairs would be nice in a stripe with yellow predominating, while the third might be interesting in a soft coral covering. Brass would be our choice for accessories with touches of gold braid on the white lamp shades. A few pieces of pewter could be used as complementary notes, and if you should find some pottery in coral or turquoise shades, a piece or two would go nicely here. Odd cushions in a flowered chintz that repeats turquoise and coral would pull the room together pleasantly.

With Gray.

Still another recipe for rescuing a room with a taupe rug would be to use a pale pink or pale peach wall paper in a soft stripe, with curtains in the same pale tone. Then we'd like the sofa slip-covered in a plain light gray-blue, with two chairs in a riotously flowered chintz with lots of pink and some blue in the design. An extra chair in light gray with pink fringe would complete the picture. Accessories and lamps in this case we'd like all in white.

Hollywood Today

SEEN AND HEARD ON SETS.

HOLLYWOOD, June 9.—"If I Were King." . . . "Nice and cool, isn't it?" says Director Frank Lloyd, indicating the dark, dank dungeon. "The temperature is 63. I believe in nice, cool dungeons for my actors," adds Frank.

An elderly extra, portraying a tattered old crone, says to an equally tattered, bearded, and undesirable-looking specimen of humanity, "You have a lovely voice." "Yes, you think so?" he replies. "Do you?" she says. "Do you have many lines?" "Oh, quite a few," answers the man. "Well," says the lady after considering the matter, "I'm sure you'll do well—if they just give you a chance." "Thanks," replies Ronald Colman—who is only the star of the picture.

A couple of cute nags covered with dirt and rags turn out to be Newcomer Ellen Drew and Alma Lloyd, daughter of Director Frank. She is a dutiful daughter—says "Yes, father." "No, father," at the right times. . . . And he watches out for her in the same devoted way that when someone removes the straw from the back part of her rags, Father Frank roars, "What are you trying to do? Take her character away?" With his own hands he resmothers her with straw.

Miss Drew is having a lovely time with Colman's boots, putting straw in the gaping holes, and pretending she is giving him the "hot-foot." Ronnie smiles at her—languidly, but flirtatiously. . . . I tell Ellen she looks like Joan Crawford, to which she replies, "Of course, I admit Miss Crawford very much—but she is rather limited, don't you think?"

"Everyone get in the mood for a 'take,'" croons Mr. Lloyd. Mr. Colman stops grinning. Ellen stops flirting with him. A desperate-looking character chained to the wall throws away the comic strip he was reading. And the camera rolls.

"You Can't Take It With You." . . . Another fail—but of the modern variety—a cage with shiny steel bars. In it are a tough bunch of hoodlums. And Jimmy Stewart, Edward Arnold and Lionel Barrymore—the latter supported by crutches, which have been written into the story to help his real-life arthritis. . . . Director Frank Capra, in a natty brown-and-white striped sweater, sits under the camera, mouthing every word spoken by his puppets.

Atlanta Sewing Club To Travel More Than 100 Miles for Meeting

By Sally Forth.

WHEN Mrs. William Wellborn holds the meeting of her sewing club the latter part of this month, the eight other members will travel a distance of a 105 miles to be present.

This will be occasioned by the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Wellborn, with their little daughter, Stella, on June 20 for their habitual summer trip to Jacksonville, Ala., to visit Mrs. Wellborn's mother, Mrs. George Rowan. Mr. and Mrs. Wellborn will remain in Jacksonville a few days, before motoring to Ponte Vedra, Fla., to join Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holland Jr., who left on Wednesday to take possession of their cottage there. They will return to Alabama in time for the sewing club meeting with Mrs. Wellborn.

Those who are planning to motor over for the spend-the-day meeting include Mrs. Harry Holland Jr., Mrs. Tucker Wayne, Mrs. Hunter Bell, Mrs. Adeline Winston Grant, Mrs. John Snelling, Mrs. Alex Hitz, Mrs. Davidson Warner and Mrs. Linton Hopkins Jr., who, with her little daughter, Nina Cabell, returns to Atlanta next week from Maxwellboro, Ala., where she has spent the past month visiting her father, M. B. Wellborn.

"TOOK-A-NOTION" is the intriguing name given to the Earle Yancey's beach cottage at Ponte Vedra, Fla., the opening of which, by the way, is scheduled for tomorrow. Leaving at an early hour by motor will be Mr. and Mrs. Yancey, their sons, Jack and Earle Jr., and Jack's close friend, Robert Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Yancey are noted hosts whose invitations never lack for acceptance, and fortunate indeed are the Atlanta friends who will be included as their guests at the continuous round of house parties at which they will entertain during the summer months.

Completing the first group of guests at "Took-A-Notion" will be Mrs. Jessie Robertson, of Marietta; Mrs. Yancey's sister, Marie Harris, and her aunt, Mrs. W. P. Weathers. Among friends of the young sons of the household who have already received coveted invitations are Tom Preacher, Billy Ennis and Pete Hall. And of course there will be any number of other Atlantans among the married set of society of which Mr. and Mrs. Yancey are popular members.

ALICE DAVIS will soon be off again on one of those numerous trips which have claimed so much of her time since the finished making her debut.

This time she will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Henry W. Davis, and the trip in question will be a two-month tour of the British Isles and the European continent. The popular pair plan to leave Atlanta on June 20 for New York, from where they will sail on June 22 aboard the Ile de France for Plymouth, England. They will visit points of interest in England, Ireland, Scotland, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland and Geneva while there, as well as take a two-day motor trip to the chateau country of France.

On August 13 they will board the Ile de France again in Havre, France, to sail for home.

MRS. PHILIP M. GRAVES is the first of a group of Atlantans to begin their trek to San Francisco to attend the International Rotary convention. Mrs. Graves left yesterday on the first lap of her western journey but will stop en route for several days' visit to her sister, Mrs. L. C. Staples, in Kansas City. She will be joined early next week in the Missouri city by Mr. Graves, who will accompany her to San Francisco. The latter, as you know, is the retiring president of the Atlanta Rotary Club, and he and Mrs. Graves will be wined and dined by officials of the organization during the convention.

The Graveses will stop at Arizona's Grand Canyon en route to California and their return trip will be made by way of the Canadian Rockies, with visits at Vancouver, Lake Louise and Banff Springs.

Edward See, newly elected president of the Atlanta Rotary Club, will attend the convention, and will be accompanied by his young daughter, Elizabeth. Other Atlantans planning to go to California for the convention are Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Weisiger, Mr. and Mrs. Foster D. Sandy, Fred Hoyt and Fred Jr., Alfred Kennedy and son, Thornton; Mark C. Pope Jr., William D. Ellis III, William W. Snow, Mr. and Mrs. William Wardlaw, Mr. and Mrs. Joel C. Harris Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Harris.

Miss Carpenter, Miss Sheffield Give Party Today

Centering the interest of the schoolgirl contingent of society is the swimming party at which Miss Mildred Carpenter, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Carpenter, and Miss Peggy Sheffield, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Sheffield Jr., will entertain today at the Piedmont Driving Club. The young hostesses will leave on June 21 to spend the summer at Camp Dixie, and the party is in the nature of a farewell to their host of friends.

An honor guest at the party will be Miss Sarah Martin, of Montgomery, Ala., who is the guest of Miss Sheffield at her home on Peachtree Battle avenue. Mrs. Carpenter and Mrs. Sheffield will assist their daughters in entertaining their guests who will include 75 members of the younger set.

The guests will assemble at 2 o'clock for an entertaining and amusing program of stunts, races and water sports, under the direction of Cairo Whitfield, life guard at the club pool. Attractive prizes will be awarded to the winners of the events which will include obstacle races, one-arm races, relay races, diving contests, apple-bobbing, swimming races and candle races.

Miss Adamson Becomes Bride Of Mr. Bradley at Baptist Church

The marriage of Miss Doris Adamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Braxton Adamson, to Charles Frederick Bradley Jr. took place last evening at 6 o'clock at the West End Baptist church, with the pastor, Dr. M. A. Cooper officiating. The beautiful ceremony was witnessed by a large group of relatives and friends.

The church was decorated with tall vases of white gladioli and seven-branched candelabra. White tulle bows marked the pews for the relatives. Miss Sara Miller, organist, played preceding the ceremony, and Howard Floyd sang.

Ushers were Francis White, Jimmy DeBardelaben, Ralph Gibson and Henry Davis. Miss Marjorie Adamson, only sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore yellow lace made on simple lines, fitted at the waist with full gored skirt, the front gore coming to a point at the V-shaped neckline. A bolero of the same material with puffed sleeves and round collar was worn and she carried a showered bouquet of souvenir roses and garden flowers.

The bridesmaids' dresses were lace over taffeta made empire style with full gored skirt and bolero-edged with a narrow pleated ruffle. Their bouquets were garden flowers tied with ribbons contrasting the colors of their dresses. Miss Annette Simmons wore peach, Miss Mary Frances Long, aqua; Miss Jimmie Busbee, pink, and Mrs. J. R. Morris, blue. The bride entered with her father, William Braxton Adamson, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Frank Rylee Martin. She wore a becoming gown of ivory satin made with a fitted tunic coat with stitched lapels and standing collar. The coat was fastened at the waist with a row of covered buttons, and the long sleeves ended in a point at the wrist. A long full train was built into the back of the coat. Her veil was of illusion tulle made with a coronet trimmed with hand-appliqued roses made of rose point lace, and it fell in soft folds the length of the train. She carried a bouquet of valley lilies and bride's roses showered with swansonia.

Mrs. W. B. Adamson, mother of the bride, wore rose lace and a shoulder corsage of Bristol roses and swansonia. Mrs. C. F. Bradley, the groom's mother, wore Alice blue lace and her flowers were talisman roses combined with swansonia. Mrs. J. C. Adamson, grandmother of the bride, wore navy blue silk and a shoulder bouquet of sweetpeas and rosebuds.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Bradley left for a motor trip through the mountains. Mrs. Bradley traveled in a cape suit of navy blue triple sheer trimmed with pink, and with navy blue accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley will reside at 1507 DeSoto avenue, Apartment 12, Tampa, Fla. Mr. Bradley is junior observer at the weather bureau at Tampa.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. J. L. Rutherford, of Hampton; Miss Sara Stanford, of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. DeBardelaben, of Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. M. M. DeBardelaben Sr., Mr. and Mrs. M. M. DeBardelaben Jr., of Ellerwood; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Starnes, of Newnan; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. DeBardelaben, of Roswell; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. DeBardelaben, of Smyrna; Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Allen, Riverdale; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Moore, L. D. Moore, of Hampton; Miss Amalie Rutherford, of Jonesboro; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Thames, of Red Oak; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Adamson, of Birmingham; Mr. Margaret Brooks, and Robert Massey, of Columbus.

Irene Baker Class.
Mrs. W. A. Stark entertained members of the Irene Baker Class of the Presbyterian church recently at her home on Atlanta avenue, Hapeville.

Contests were enjoyed, with Miss Tucker and Mrs. B. O. Green winning prizes. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. James Stark.

Present were Misses Mary Tucker, Annie Terrell, Mesdames Mabel Parham, F. B. Felker, B. O. Green, Neill Leach, R. L. Terrell, William McDonald, Robert Whigham, L. S. Terrell, Fritz Sisson, Terrell Walker, John Newton, R. H. Grantham, D. W. Brown, J. W. Hazelwood, E. L. Hopper, Frank Brown, Chester, James Stark and W. A. Stark.

Mrs. Perkerson Feted At Farewell Parties

A series of interesting farewell parties is being planned in honor of Mrs. Angus Perkerson, who leaves June 29 for Europe to attend International Women's Week in Budapest, Hungary.

Next Tuesday Mrs. John Marsh will give an informal luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club for Mrs. Perkerson. Sharing honors will be Miss Jessie Hopkins, who will also attend the convention. Mrs. Paul Crowell will entertain at Saturday, June 18, at her home on Peachtree in honor of Mrs. Perkerson. This affair will assemble a few close friends of the honor guest.

The convention will be held July 23-30 and Mrs. Perkerson will attend as a member of a special committee selected to represent the National Federation of Press Women.

Mrs. Perkerson will share honors with Mrs. Pauline Branyon, well-known Atlanta newspaper woman, on June 21 at the cocktail party at which Mrs. Mildred Seydell entertains.

The affair takes place at the Piedmont Driving Club and will assemble members of the Atlanta Woman's Press Club and a limited number of friends of the hostess. Mrs. Branyon is president of the club and Mrs. Perkerson is the vice president.

Mrs. Branyon sails early in August from New Orleans for interesting ports in the West Indies and on the east and west coasts of South America. She will be accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Nancy Branyon, who is a member of the graduating class at the University of Georgia and will receive her B. A. degree in journalism from the university next Tuesday.

Miss Mary Roberts Becomes Bride Of Mr. Roberts at Nuptial Mass

A beautiful event of yesterday morning was the nuptial mass at the Immaculate Conception church at which Miss Mary Louise Roberts became the bride of Edward Franklin Roberts, of Griffin, formerly of Henderson, Ky., the Rev. Father J. R. Smith officiating.

Palms and baskets of calla lilies adorned the sanctuary, and on either altar were seven-branched candelabra with lighted white tapers.

Miss Mary Catherine Roberts, of Henderson, Ky., sister of the groom, was the maid of honor, and Miss Woodie Capps, bridesmaid. They wore floor-length organdy dresses featuring square necklines and full skirts. Miss Roberts wore pink, with a pink horsehair picture hat, and Miss Capps wore blue, with a blue lace picture hat. Their flowers were Talisman roses and valley lilies.

The bride entered with her brother, Boyce E. Roberts, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, James Roberts, of Henderson, Ky., who was the best man. The bride wore white embroidered marquisette featuring a V-neckline and large, puffed sleeves. Her off-the-face hat was of white horsehair and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Boyce Eidson Roberts, mother of the bride, wore pale blue triple sheer crepe featuring a fingertip coat and a white straw hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of white rosebuds and valley lilies. Mrs. James H. Roberts, of Henderson, Ky., mother of the groom, wore copper-colored lace, with white hat and accessories. Her corsage was of white roses and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony, the bride's mother entertained at a wedding breakfast at her home. The bride's table, overlaid with a lace cloth, was lighted with white tapers held in candelabra and centered with a mound of white roses. The three-tiered bride's cake was at one end of the table.

Mr. Roberts and his bride left by motor for Florida, the bride traveling in a light blue sharkskin suit with white hat and accessories. Her corsage was of white rosebuds and valley lilies. They will reside in Griffin.

Cat Club Meets.

Cotton States Cat Club held a luncheon recently. An interesting talk on the "Care and Feeding of Cats" was given by Dr. Charles C. Rife as guest speaker. A report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. L. E. Bobet, and plans were discussed for the coming cat show to be held December 3 and 4.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Foster Prather, Mesdames E. M. Kimball, C. D. Carroll, E. P. Donaldson, C. M. Stokes, Louise Neuschulter, Joe Young, LaGrange, H. C. Reeves, L. E. Bobet, Sankey Smith, H. B. Greer, Misses Rachel Whitmeyer, Sue Clafin and Mr. and Mrs. Swarthout.

Branch Beats Dahlbender, 5-3, for Junior Golf Title

(Editor's Note: Ralph McGill arrived in Atlanta Tuesday after a six-month tour of Europe while on a Rosenwald fellowship. Today's Break o' Day was mailed from Troon, Scotland, the scene of the British amateur golf championship, and arrived while Mr. McGill was en route.

TROON, Scotland.—(By Mail.)—The old course at Troon has what no other golf course in the world possesses, and that is a cuckoo.

This particular cuckoo has a sense of humor. He or she, and that is of no particular interest, dwells in the thick gorse where the course turns. The old course at Troon, where our Mr. C. Yates, of Atlanta, won the British amateur championship like the champion he is, goes out along the sea for four holes and then turns inland. The Scottish seaside courses have none of this comfort of coming back to the clubhouse at the ninth. The ninth is the farthest spot from the clubhouse. There the course turns. The greens of the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth are not too far apart and it is there the cuckoo dwells.

I had heard the larks for weeks in England and had left without hearing the cuckoo. In Ireland I had heard the cuckoo calling at 5 o'clock one morning. In Ireland I was talking too much and said that if anyone heard a cuckoo to be sure and let me know. This was at an Irish farmhouse. The next morning, just at dawn, I was shaken by the shoulder and the shaker told me a cuckoo was calling out in the hedge about the hay-ricks. I would not voluntarily wake up at 5 a. m. to hear a whole male chorus of cuckoos.

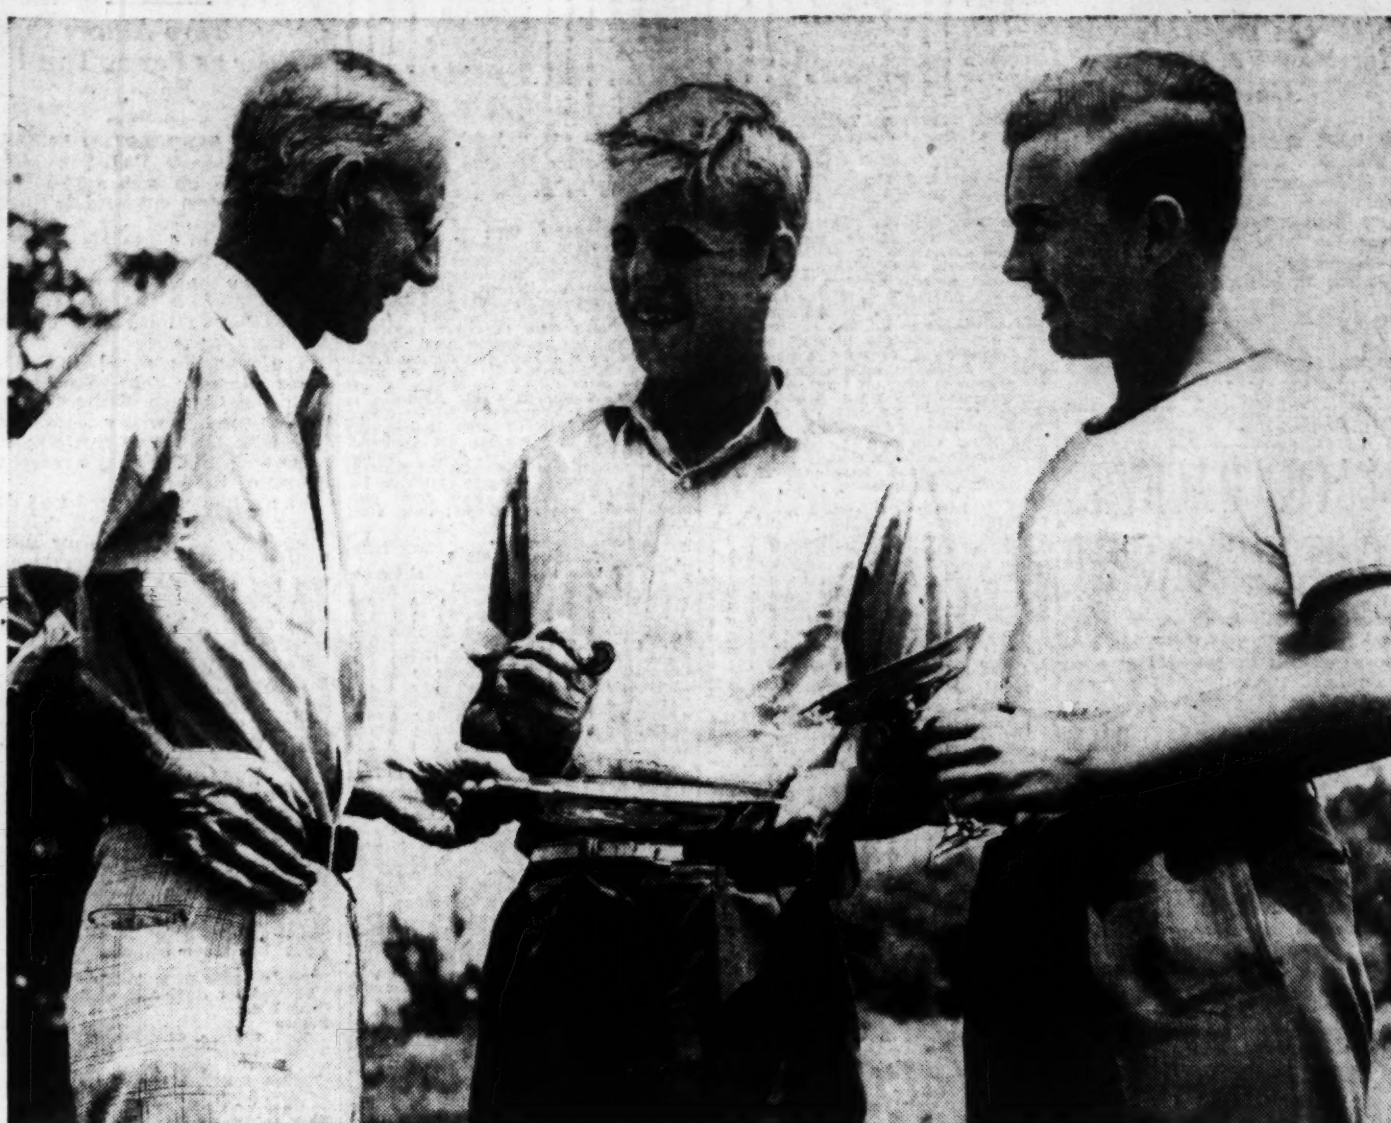

But hearing a cuckoo on the golf course was something else.

He never called until a golfer made a bad shot. That is the truth, so help me. The moment a golfer failed to get onto the postage stamp green at the eighth, he had to pause and from the gorse would come the dulcet tones of the bird: "Cuckoo! Cuckoo! Cuckoo!" Just like that. Honest.

This bird seemed to like golf. He or she would move around. One day it would have a place near the ninth, which was a blind green, and when a golfer was

LIVINGSTONE PRESENTS TROPHIES TO WINNER, RUNNER-UP

TEXILE LEAGUE.

Piedmont Mills, the leaders in the Atlanta textile league since the dethroning of Hokeproof Hosiery Company, meet the Exposition Mills team Saturday afternoon, and all indications are that they will retain their lead. Exposition has not made a very impressive record this season and things look dark for them. Hokeproof meets the strong Scottsdale team in their first-round game. Marietta took them, 4 to 1, but they have changed a little since that time and the Marietta team has lost strength. Fulton Bag will attempt to get revenge on Whittier Mills for the 11-to-10 defeat given them in the first round, and the chances are the Baggers will be successful.

SCHEDULE.
Piedmont vs. Exposition Mills at Exposition; Van Houten umpire. Marietta vs. Scottsdale at Scottsdale; Green, umpire. Fulton Bag vs. Whittier Mills at Whittier; Taylor, umpire.

Sensational Rally Wins for Branch

Three Down at 18, Weldon Squares Match at 28th With Birdie Four.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
Weldon Branch Jr., three down after the morning 18, came back yesterday afternoon with his "lucky blue shirt" and a sensational rally to defeat Gene Dahlbender Jr., 5 and 3, in the finals of the annual Atlanta junior golf tournament at Ingleside Country Club.

Branch, 16-year-old East Lake player, suddenly regained his lost putting touch on the 25th hole and shot even par from there on to beat the No. 2 player from Darlington school. The winner was over par but once, but made up for it with a birdie on the 28th.

Three down after 24 holes, Branch won eight of the last nine played—seven of them coming in rapid succession on the last seven holes!

ONE DOWN AT 28.
The youthful Boys' High No. 3 man won the 25th with a par three, halved the 26th with a par four and won the 27th with another par three to go into the last nine only one down.

He squared the match for the first time since the sixth hole on the 28th with a beautiful birdie four. His drive was down the middle and his second just short of a grass trap in front of his green.

His chip was dead to the pin, giving him one putt for the birdie. Branch won the next five to run out the match, shooting four pars and a bogey.

In winning the tournament, Weldon also won a trip to the southern amateur next week, his father promising the journey if he won the junior title.

BERRY WINS CONSOLATION.
In the championship consolation flight, George Berry defeated Bobby Adair, 9 and 7, in an easy final. Earl McCullum beat Wallace Cochran, 2 and 1, for the second flight title.

The tournament was sponsored by the Atlanta Golf Association and was conducted by Professional Jimmy Livingstone and his son, Henry.

Dahlbender, displaying smooth form, especially on the greens, clearly outplayed the winner on the morning 18. He was constantly getting more distance off the tees than his more erratic opponent.

MATCH TURKS.
However, after Branch had changed to his "lucky green shirt" during the lunch recess, the Darlington star's work on the tees faltered, while Branch's drives and putts improved considerably.

A large crowd—including 1937 Champion Billy Caves Jr.—followed the match. Caves was over age and could not defend his title this year.

Trophies were awarded winners and runners-up of each flight. Their cards:

Speer's Condition

Extremely Critical

Condition of Frank Speer, ill at St. Joseph's hospital from bronchial pneumonia, was pronounced as "critical" by attending physicians last night, who announced that a crisis would probably be reached within 24 hours.

The former All-American Georgia tackle and well-known wrestler was taken to the hospital Monday in serious condition and has gradually grown worse.

Frank complained of chills early last week and got up from a sick bed to go through with a scheduled match with Dory Roche at Warren Arena. The big athlete has many friends here and throughout the country who are pulling for him to win the hardest fight of his career.

MRS. GAUT WINS.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 9.—(P)—Rallying on the back nine, Mrs. Dave Gaut, defending champion, defeated her fellow Memphian, Mrs. Napoleon Hill, 3 and 1.

*BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 9.—Tom Sunkel's two-hit pitching gave the Crackers the second game of last night's double-header, 2 to 1, after they had lost the first game, 7 to 5.

Charlie George will be on the mound for Birmingham in tonight's final. Bill Geckman will hurl for Atlanta. Henry Johnson and Newel Kimball hurled for Birmingham in the first game, yielding eight hits, with Larry Miller, who started, getting credit for the Cracker defeat. Ted Pritchett and Leo Moon followed.

BATTLE IN SNOW SLATED TONIGHT

King Snow will mount the rascal throne here tonight. Promoter Nat Jones announced two tons of snow will be imported here for the first snow match ever staged in the Avondale arena.

Although this method of arena warfare is new in Atlanta, it is a craze that has swept the country, and it is expected to go over in a big way at the Avondale arena this week.

Jim Stecker and Honey Boy Hackney are experienced snow grapplers and every indication points to an interesting performance. Both men promise they will be the first to mount the winning throne and will smear it on plenty in the scramble for the seat.

Picard, Hines Leaders in National Open With Sub-Par 70's

MANY FAVORITES FALTER ON HARD DENVER COURSE

Rogers' 71 Is 3d, E. Zimmerman 4th; Hunter, Metz Tied for 5th.

By ALAN GOULD.
DENVER, June 9.—(P)—Jimmie Hines, Metropolitan New York open title holder, tied Henry Picard, fellow professional from Hershey, Pa., for the first round lead in the United States open golf championship late today at 70, one under par for Cherry Hills.

While most of the day's gallery of 5,000 spectators scrambled for a peek at his finish, Hines tossed a great chance to get undisputed possession of the lead by taking a six on the par fourth 18th or "lake hole." He overshot the last green, then three-putted from 15 feet, just before a thunderstorm broke over the course.

Out in 34 and with a bag of six birdies through the 14th, Hines faltered at the finish of a brilliant round as the climax to a bizarre opening day as the open championship has witnessed in years. The weather ranged from scorching sunshine to wind-swept rain. The scores shuffled from a handful of par figures, on either nine, to the 90's and the officials were run ragged trying to untangle disputes.

SNEAD 7 BACK.

Five-star victims of the day's terrific toll of casualties in a battle that lasted until 7 p. m. (M. S. T.) included Slammin' Sammy Snead, the West Virginia mountaineer who started out as the 5-to-1 favorite and wound up seven strokes off the pace, with a 77. Snead never was able to get his long game under control.

The defending champion, Ralph Guldahl, of Madison, N. J., was within range of the pace-makers with a 74 but the hazards of Cherry Hills, especially on the last three holes, wrecked the chances of more favorites than the oldest tournament follower could recall. Bryon Nelson, of Reading, Pa., concentrated his errors on the 535-yard creek, infested fifth, where he took a nine. He finished with 77. Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., sharpshooter, finished with a seven for a 79. Jimmy Thomson, the sieve gun from Shawnee-on-Deleware, Pa., blew himself to an 82, despite the fact he was using iron off most tees to try to keep out of trouble.

Scarcely a dozen scores, on either nine, equalled or bettered par figures. John Rogers, the Denver pro, whose 70 gave him third place, had the best outgoing round, 33. Picard's incoming 34 was the only sub-par performance on the incoming half of Cherry Hills.

Two former champions, Gene Sarazen, the Connecticut farmer,

Boland Top-Seeded In Biltmore Tourney

Moore Is Second in Inaugural Championship Meet; Play Will Start Monday.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Dr. Kels Boland, one of Atlanta's chief exponents of the pat-ball game, has been seeded first in the inaugural of the Biltmore championship tournament starting Monday on the Biltmore course.

Bill Moore, No. 2 man on the Georgia Tech squad and winner of the 1937 city tournament, draws the second favored spot, while Preston Chambers, Marion Reese, Malcolm Manley, Red Enloe, Hank Crawford and Dr. Glenn Dudley complete the select group.

Reese, who recently announced himself a professional, changed his mind and is being reinstated as an amateur.

CLASSY FIELD.

Approximately 30 of the outstanding netters in the city have entered, and a classy field of Atlanta's best is assured for the first tournament, which is to be an annual affair.

Any one of the seeded players is capable of winning the meet.

BUDGE DEFEATS PALLADA, GAINS FINAL IN FRANCE

Don Meets Menzel Today in Second 'Trick' of 'Grand Slam.'

AUTEUIL, France, June 9.—(P)—Giant Roderich Menzel, of Czechoslovakia, was the final barrier to-night between red-headed Don Budge, of California, and the second trick in his hoped-for tennis grand slam.

Budge and Menzel, who is making a comeback after a year's absence from big-time tennis, are finalists in the French hard court singles championship. Budge, already winner this year of the Australian crown, intends to add to it the French, British and United States titles this summer.

The finalists gained their brackets with straight-set semi-final triumphs. The Californian, whose every shot packed dynamite, blasted away Josip Pallada, of Yugoslavia, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. Menzel eliminated Pallada's countryman and Davis cup partner, Ferenc Puncce, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

While Budge went into the singles final his doubles mate, Gene Mako, teamed with Mrs. Harry Hopman, of Australia, to reach the mixed doubles semi-finals. They whipped Jacqueline Horner and Jacques Sangier, of France, 6-1, 6-0.

BOWDEN, KEELER HOLD ACE LEAD

"Slim" Bowden and Mrs. O. B. Keeler continue to hold the lead in the Atlanta Women's Golf Association's hole-in-one tournament at the Venetian driving range.

Bowden's 1 foot 4 inch drive still has withstood all assaults and Mrs. Keeler's 1 foot 11 inch attempt leads the women contestants.

The program last night was cut short by rain but will be resumed tonight. Three nights remain for play and Mrs. Keeler's Atlanta is invited out to try their skill (and luck).

'FULL DRESS' OR TRUNKS --- A MATTER OF AGE

The Smith brothers—Leonard, 10, at the left, and Charles, 13, at the right—are swimming devotees at the East Lake Country Club, now that school books are forgotten and the good old summer time is here. Although there is only a difference of three years in their ages, they must "dress" for swimming accordingly. Twelve is the age limit at East Lake Club for swimming in trunks only. Over that age, masculine swimmers at the club are required to wear either one-piece suits or trunks and tops—the two-piece style. The tops style, however, is a favorite among many swimmers in Atlanta at other clubs and pools. The Smith brothers are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O. Smith, of 115 Second avenue in East Lake, and swimming is their favorite sport.

WIGHTMAN PLAY TO START TODAY; U. S. IS FAVORED

Despite Loss of Helen Jacobs, Americans 5-to-1 Choice.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 9. (P)—Despite the loss of Helen Jacobs, who pulled a nerve in her right arm and may be unable to play for two weeks, the United States women's tennis team was favored tonight at 5-1 to win the Wightman cup for the eighth straight time in the two-day matches starting tomorrow.

Miss Jacobs, who developed a stiff neck and shoulder yesterday, injured her arm in a practice set against Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabry, of Boston, who was named to the No. 3 singles spot in her place. Today, with her arm in a sling, the California veteran watched Helen Wills Moody beat Alice Marble in a terrific set in the last practice before the matches. The score was 6-3.

After the workout Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, captain of the United States team, said: "I never have seen Mrs. Moody or Miss Marble play better. Naturally, I am confident."

Miss Marble, American champion in 1936, will lead off in tomorrow's singles against Left-Handed Kay Stammers. Mrs. Moody meets Margaret Scriven, in doubles. Miss Marble and Mrs. Fabry will play Fred James and Margot Lumb.

On Saturday Miss Lumb will play Mrs. Fabry, Miss Stammers will meet Mrs. Moody and Miss Marble will face Miss Scriven, while the doubles will send Mrs. Moody and Dorothy May Bundy against Evelyn Dearman and Joan Ingram.

Miss Jacobs really is worried about the possibility of not being able to play in the all-England championships opening at Wimbledon June 20. Mrs. Moody, playing in the matches for the first time since 1912, served notice on Miss Marble, supposed to be her main rival for world honors this year, that she is just as good as ever.

PROTEST DENIED.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 9.—(P)—President Trammell Scott of the Southern association today overruled Chattanooga's protest of a 5-to-4 Memphis victory over the Lookouts at Chattanooga May 27 and allowed the victory to stand.

short in a bunker or over, the bird would let loose with his mild reprimand, "Cuckoo! Cuckoo!" He, or she, liked the tenth, too. It was blind, was the green, for the first and second shots. The cuckoo had a lot of fun there.

In a practice round on Thursday, before the tournament began on Monday, I was walking with Mr. Yates, Mr. Gordon Peters and Mr. S. F. Morrison. At the tenth, Mr. Morrison duffed his second and the cuckoo responded. Hence it came about that I had the pleasure of seeing Mr. Yates win his first British amateur title and of hearing him hear his first cuckoo. The bird never got to sing during Mr. Yates' rounds. The boy duffed not a shot.

I think, however, the Troon course is the only one to boast a cuckoo which is a golf fan. Many golfers themselves are somewhat cuckoo, as are some golf reporters. But to have the famous bird itself a golf fan is a real distinction of which Troon is proud.

I think Mr. Howard Beckett and Mr. George Sargent ought to import a few cuckoos to sit in the rough at Capital City and East Lake.

"OH, TO BE IN ENGLAND!"

The poet once wrote a song which began, "Oh, to be in England, now that April's there."

It is interesting to note he did not want to be in England now that November or December or January or February was there. The weather is quite bad. The English have never developed central heating for the reason that they never could have been able to colonize had they possessed it. They were able to supply a rush of young men and women to their British colonies simply because the colonists wanted to escape a winter in England. They all appreciate being there when April has arrived. But even April and parts of May can be a bit rugged. Nevertheless, it is beautiful when the hedges are yellow with gorse and white with hawthorne and when the fields are dotted with primroses and with daffodils and with buttercups. It's all right. You will note, however, the poet specified April. Nothing earlier interested him.

The larks were interesting. I think it was Mr. Shelley who began a poem, "Hail to thee, blythe spirit, bird thou never were!" Or something like that. I never cared much for Shelley but will go along with him about the larks. They are the maddest and the most persistent singers in the world, better even than the Italians.

WHY THEY READ NOVELS.

I think, too, along with discovering why England doesn't have central heating, I know why the English are such great readers of novels—the greatest novel-reading nation in the world. I have found out why. It is a bit necessary.

One should always carry novels to a British restaurant. I am sure the waiters and the cooks have them. The proper procedure is to carry a novel along and to find a seat. This done, you may read two or three chapters of the novel. By that time the waiter or waitress will probably be near enough to the table to catch his or her eye. You then give an order. You then plunge into the reading of your novel.

This is necessary because the waitress reads a chapter or so in her novel and then tells the chef the order. The chef, raising his head long enough to get the order, continues reading the next two chapters. He then serves the order and the waitress gets through another chapter or so before bringing it to the table.

A good fast reader can finish "Gone With the Wind" at lunch and "Anthony Adverse" at dinner.

REAL DAYLIGHT TIME.

One of the things which kept me in a constant state of wonderment was the difference in time. When Yates was starting his first match in the British amateur, it was 2:30 a. m. in Atlanta, sleeping soundly, while we at 8:30 o'clock were up starting on a round of golf in an important championship.

GAME SUNDAY.

The Hapeville Black Barons will meet the Capital Auto White Sox five straight games.

71 ARE GRADUATED BY MORRIS BROWN

Degrees Awarded From Liberal Arts, Commercial and Theological Departments.

A class of 71 seniors at Morris Brown College received degrees at graduation exercises Wednesday in Big Bethel Methodist church. Philip Weltner, former chancellor of the University System of Georgia, who delivered the principal address, stressed the value of honesty in a worth-while life and urged the graduates to take their places in the social order by becoming good citizens.

Annie L. Ford Jackson, was the highest honor graduate. Degrees were awarded from the liberal arts, commercial and theological departments. Professor Julia F. Jackson, C. L. E. Monroe and H. C. Baggs were granted leaves of absence to do graduate work. Dr. J. R. Coan was granted a similar leave to serve as dean of Wilberforce Theological Seminary, in Cape Town, South Africa. Professor Jackson, who is head of the language department, will study in France.

Bishop W. A. Fountain presided over the annual meeting of the board of trustees. Among those making reports were W. A. Fountain Jr., C. A. Wing, of the south

Horace--a Python-- Nips British Calm

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—A 12-foot python by the name of Horace gave a London neighborhood a jittery night. Horace escaped yesterday from a pen in the home of a chiropractor, his owner. Scotland Yard called out police to hunt the reptile. Windows in the neighborhood were tightly locked, pedestrians were wary and in many homes children were forbidden to go outside.

The search ended today when a maid found Horace asleep behind a wardrobe in the chiropractor's home.

TEACHERS TO GET FINAL PAYMENTS

Salaries Will Be Sent to Counties Before End of Week.

Final payment on salaries to teachers of the common schools will be sent counties before the end of the week, making a total of more than $13,000,000 the state has paid toward support of the schools this year, Governor Rivers announced yesterday.

The Governor said the payment to the schools for the year is the largest in the history of the state. Some school officials said the $13,000,000 just about doubled the largest amount ever given before.

State Auditor Zach Arnld yesterday prepared a warrant for $655,000, representing the last payment to the teachers which covers the final two weeks of April. "When this payment has been completed, the teachers will have received something over $9,000,000," Governor Rivers said. "Added to this is the free school book fund and equalization payments from the gasoline tax which will run the total beyond $10,000,000. We have carried out the law requiring that calls for state support of the schools for seven months."

The state school department is the only unit of the government receiving 100 per cent of its 1937-38 appropriation. All other departments are operating on 74 per cent of their total. The appropriation bill providing for a scaling down of various departments decreed that the school appropriation could not be cut.

Governor Rivers said that in order to meet the $9,000,000 for teachers he had to apply about $1,400,000 from the newly created stabilization fund which was set up by the assembly during its special session.

LENDABLE BANK FUNDS JUMP TO $2,710,000,000

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—The Federal Reserve Board said today the lendable excess reserves of the nation's banks jumped another $70,000,000 to $2,710,000,000 in the week ended June 8. Idle funds piled up both because of a seasonal reduction of money in circulation and continued treasury spending of parts of the $1,400,000,000 created in April for sterilization of gold in April. For the fifth consecutive week, the federal reserve system made no change in its portfolio of federal securities.

HAGUE IS ACCUSED OF FOMENTING RIOT

Jersey Mayor Directed Attack, 'Civil Rights' Counsel Charges.

NEWARK, N. J., June 9.—(AP)—CIO counsel charged at the "civil rights" trial in federal court today the authorities of Jersey City, where Frank Hague has been mayor or a quarter century, directed last Saturday night's riot of Socialist Leader Norman Thomas who was howled down in a barrage of rotten eggs and bricks in a Newark park.

Spaulding Frazer, dean of Newark Law School and counsel for the CIO and co-plaintiffs in a suit for an injunction restraining Hague and fellow officials from interfering with the plaintiffs' activities, said the attack was "part of a conspiracy to prevent free speech at the direction of Jersey City authorities."

The city commission of Newark—New Jersey's largest city and a neighbor of Hague's bailiwick, the second largest—has ordered an investigation of the foray against Thomas by 100 men with veterans' overseas caps and accompanied by a band.

Lawyers for Jersey City today subpoenaed all records, lists of officers, membership rosters and financial books of the CIO and its affiliates since the CIO started activities in New Jersey.

Mayor Hague, vice chairman of the National Democratic committee, who is waging a self-styled "war on Reds" and has been made a defendant with Public Safety Director Daniel Casey and Police Chief Harry Walsh, is scheduled to take the stand tomorrow as a witness called by the plaintiffs.

2 KILLED, 4 INJURED IN HEAD-ON CAR CRASH

CLEARWATER, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—Six young Clearwater men were injured—two fatally—in a head-on automobile-truck collision on the Gulf-to-Bay boulevard two miles east of here early today.

The dead were Harry Poole, 23, and Charles (Booby) Williams, 19, who were burned. The injured are Lee Mason, 26, reported in a critical condition at a hospital; Kenneth Eubanks, 22; Henry McMullen, 18, and James Keene, 27.

INSANE CAPTAIN JUMPS INTO OCEAN

Disables Craft Between Key West and Havana.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 9.—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Mojave radioed divisional headquarters here today Captain John Erickson, of the yacht Backbone, apparently went insane shortly before midnight, disabled the craft and jumped overboard between Key West and Havana, Cuba.

The message said Joseph Mann, of Auburn, N. Y., Erickson's only companion on the yacht, summoned the Honolulan steamer Castillo with a flashlight and was taken aboard the Castillo, which then stood by until the Mojave arrived in answer to a radio call. Captain Erickson, the Mojave reported, crippled the yacht's steering gear and engine clutch before he went over the side.
